REACTION TO RATE POLICY BIG QUESTION

Detroit Bankers Inclined to Criticize Board for Its Position

CREDIT REMAINS GOOD

Business Men Object to Policy Which Tends Toward Unsettling

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Detroit — While outwardly there is the greatest respect for and confidence in the Federal Reserve system there is manifest here in the private conversations with bankers and business men a questioning attitude concerning the wisdom of recent Federal Reserve policies if not the capacity of the board to deal with what is admitted to be the most serious credit situation the nation has faced since the war.

Discussion of the high money rates reveals that business has not had any difficulty getting credit accommodations, and has absorbed without a murmur the increased expense but there is a noticeable pessimism about the possible reaction on business generally of any policy of continued unrelenting policy.

The method and manner by which the Federal Reserve bank machinery has forced a reduction of member bank borrowings has come in for a good deal of criticism as well as the dumping on the market of many millions of government securities in an effort to divert from the stock market funds being used there in excessive speculation. Perhaps the most significant comment heard is in reference to the banking operations undertaken by large corporations which have placed huge sums of money on call in New York and rendered the situation there beyond the control of normal banking machinery. The view is expressed that the use of stockholders' money to bring about an artificial situation in Wall Street can only bring ultimately some investigation of the reason for these undivided surpluses and while the public appeal and moral suasion mode of influencing the various factors in the money situation is not any too popular it is argued that some of the direct pressure used by the Federal Reserve on banks in endeavoring to make them

FRANCE PUTS STOP TO FLIGHT TO NEW YORK

Seville, Spain.—(AP)—The French aviators, Captain Louis Couduoret and Count de Mailly-Nesle, have abandoned their intention of a non-stop flight from Seville to New York and will return to Paris in their Bernard monoplane next Monday.

The Spanish authorities recently prevented their taking off by locking the plane in its hangar. They acted on a petition from the French government, which recently has frowned on transoceanic flying.

Vacant Property Quickly Filled

Rental property to make a proper income must be kept occupied. Every day that the flat or home is vacant means a loss to the owner. Classified rental ads quickly locate desirable renters and at a small cost.

Amanda Engel, 1221 N. Drew, required only a small ad to quickly rent her flat. 10 replies enabled her to make a choice of tenants. Results materialized immediately after the first publication of the ad.

Four Caught In Abduction Of Official

Idaho Lieutenant Governor Identifies Them as Men Who Robbed Him

Julietta, Idaho.—(AP)—Four of five men in jail here had been identified today by Lieut. Gov. W. B. Kinne of Idaho, as those who abducted and robbed him last Wednesday and then shot and beat two men who came to his assistance.

The men were captured near here yesterday after two boys discovered two of the bandits asleep. Those under arrest were George Norman, 47, Seattle, alleged of the gang, who is said to have a criminal record; Tibbot Reynolds, 29, Metairie Falls, Wash.; Frank Lane, 21, Red Mound, Wis.; George Livingston, 19, Alabama; and Engos Fnoysland, 21, North Dakota.

A confession by Livingston followed the arrests, brought about by Ward Alexander, 14, and Sam Bryant, 16, who came upon two of the men asleep in the woods. The companions were nearby. The boys summoned police and the five men, exhausted by their efforts to escape, confessed the abduction and robbery of Kinne, were captured without resistance.

In his confession Livingston implicated his companions. He said they were on their way to Pierce City, Idaho, to commit a robbery when Lieutenant Governor Kinne drove along in his automobile. They commanded him to stop and confiscated his car.

When W. L. Tribbey and Paul Kille of Spokane came to the lieutenant governor's aid, the bandits attacked and seriously injured the two men. Livingston confessed, Livingston testified that he and his companions drove about the country and were joined by Norman, their alleged leader.

They tied their three victims to trees and robbed them of about $214. Kinne and his companions succeeded in escaping.

REPORT SCARFACE AL TRYING FOR RELEASE

Philadelphia.—(AP)—Director Lemuel D. Schofield of the department of public safety, said today that efforts have been made to obtain the release from the county prison here of Scarface Al Capone, Chicago gang leader.

Capone was sentenced to one year with his bodyguard, Frank Rio, also known as Kline, on a charge of carrying concealed deadly weapons, after their arrest May 17, by city detectives.

"Capone has offered $50,000 or more to any lawyer or group of lawyers who can obtain his release in advance of the term court sentence," said Director Schofield.

"I received this information from Chicago the other day from a source which I consider most reliable.

"The department of public safety will cooperate with the district attorney's office to block any attempt to arrange for his release before his sentence expires."

Texans Condemn First Lady For Entertaining Negriss

Austin, Texas.—(AP)—The Texas senate was on record today as condemning by resolution Mrs. Hoover, wife of the president, for entertaining Mrs. Oscar De Priest, wife of a Negro member of congress from Illinois, at a White House tea last Wednesday.

Miss Margie E. Neal, Democrat, only woman member of the upper house of the Texas legislature, introduced the resolution which was adopted with only two dissenting votes.

The Neal resolution was accepted instead of one offered by Senator T. J. Holbrook which was aimed at both Mrs. Hoover and the Texas Democrats who supported Mr. Hoover at the election last fall. The resolution adopted did not condemn the Hoover supporters but pointed out that in the campaign they were "warned of the danger of racial equality recognition at the national capital through the election of the Republican candidate."

Texas went into the Republican column last year for the first time since the Civil war.

The resolution condemning Mrs. Hoover said "social recognition of a member of the Negro race accorded by women whose official and social positions are unsurpassed is fraught with the greatest consequences conducive to amicable relations of the two races."

People of the south, especially Texas, never have condoned such action, the resolution said, and such recognition of De Priest's wife was described as "calculated to greatly disturb relations, when the breach between Negroes and the white race and cause untold bloodshed."

"Bowling our heads in shame and regret," the resolution continued, "we express in the strongest and most emphatic terms our condemnation, and regret at the conduct of the White House mistress and her associates."

ACTION ENDS LONG BATTLE IN CONGRESS

Federal Farm Board to Have Half Billion to Solve Crop Situation

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Simultaneous with President Hoover's signature of the debtless farm bill today, Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, announced he would offer the export proposition as an amendment to the tariff bill and thereby revive the move in congress for this plan of controlling crop surpluses.

Washington.—(AP)—President Hoover with a stroke of the pen today placed in effect the new farm relief policies which his administration had drawn to alleviate the ills of agriculture.

Climaxing months of campaigning, pre-inauguration activities, and congressional controversy, the president with ceremony appropriate to such an event, wrote his name across the farm measure and thereby placed it upon the statute books.

The signature was affixed in the presence of a group of congressional leaders which included Vice President Curtis, Speaker Longworth, Secretary Hyde of the department of agriculture, and a number of farm leaders of the house and senate.

Weeks of work by agriculture committees of the two houses; days of dispute between two determined bodies, and countless hours of debate were closed last yesterday with the senate finally accepting the bill without the export debenture plan so steadfastly objected to by Mr. Hoover.

After this final action at the capitol the measure was rushed to the White House so that no time would be lost in its presentation to the chief executive who immediately made arrangements for today's ceremonies.

HALF BILLION FUND

The new farm law embodies an authorization for an appropriation of $500,000,000 to be used by the Federal Farm Board in an effort to solve the surplus crop situation through a series of stabilization corporations and commodity councils.

The farm board will consist of nine members, eight to be appointed by the president while the secretary

Failure To Reach Paris Laid To Secret Passenger

"We May Consider Ourselves Fortunate," Says Rene LeFevre

Comillas, Spain.—(AP)—Whatever young Arthur Schreiber may think of his action in stowing away aboard the French transatlantic monoplane, Yellow Bird, the 22-year-old Portland, Me., youth is getting a good share of the blame for the Yellow Bird's failure at least to reach French soil.

Rene LeFevre, the plane's navigator, was quite definite in thinking that the stowaway was responsible.

"We may consider ourselves really very fortunate, although we much regret that we could not reach the goal of our voyage, because of the presence of our clandestine passenger. His weight caused a higher consumption of gasoline and forced us to come down still short of LeBourget," said LeFevre.

The French aviators were greatly puzzled to know how Schreiber was able to get aboard the plane which was supposed to have been closely watched until the moment of the departure, from Old Orchard.

On Wednesday, pineapple cake, jiffy icing, lobster cookies and icebox cake, and rich drop cakes will be on the program, and on Thursday Mrs. Margaret E. Brown, who is conducting the school, will teach the school how to make yeast rolls, salad dressings and salads.

Classes will be held from 2 to 4 o'clock Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

CURB MARKET TRADING MORE THAN ON EXCHANGE

New York.—(AP)—The volume of trading on the curb market today for the first time exceeded the sales on the New York Stock exchange, due to the tremendous turnover in public utility stocks. Curb sales today's short session totaled 1,257,000, while "Big Board" transacted 1,155,000.

The bulk of the curb trading was in Commonwealth and Southern, which yesterday established an individual stock sales record for any exchange with a turnover of 622,400 shares. Today's transaction reached 331,900 shares in this stock. A block of 100,000 shares of the stock was sold at the opening at $21, unchanged from last night. The closing price was $24.87 1/2.

BELIEVE SLAIN MAN ILLINOIS GAMBLER

Two Men Missing After Testimony Before Grand Jury Investigation

Chicago.—(AP)—Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson of Cook-co, said today he believes the charred body of a man found near Rhineland, Wis., yesterday to be that of Shelby Moore or Harry Arrick, indicted collector of the Chicago Heights gambling syndicate. Both Moore and Arrick disappeared immediately after they had testified before a grand jury which indicted Oliver J. Ellis, alleged head of the syndicate, and others.

Keys found near the body were found to have been purchased from a Chicago Heights hardware store. This fact strengthened Roche's belief that the victim was one of the gambling ring, Roche said.

There also was a belief among police here that the burned body was that of an unidentified man who was dragged from a taxicab on the south side by gangsters more than a month ago.

KEY IS TRACED

Rhineland.—(AP)—A new clew today led authorities to Chicago for aid in identifying the body of a man who was bound to a post, shot to death and then burned beyond recognition in a dense swamp south of Three Lakes. The body was buried here today.

One of 5 keys found in the heap of ashes near the body was sold by the Duran Hardware company, Chicago Heights, Ill. It was learned, through the manufacturer of the key at Philadelphia.

Another key was brought to light through a report that a Mr. Erickson, a clothing salesman, was in the territory of the murder scene for about a month, selling clothing to lumbermen and then he disappeared. His whereabouts are unknown.

WISCONSIN PRIEST IS SHOT IN MINNESOTA

Winona, Minn.—(AP)—The Rev. Nicholas Brommenschnecker, 60, a Roman Catholic priest, on leave from the La Crosse diocese, was found shot to death in a rooming house here early today after what police said was an encounter between him and John Gira, 65, who was wounded in the thigh. Mrs. Gira, 43, had been clubbed over the head, police said.

In a lengthy statement given County Attorney Owen, Gira said relations with his wife were amicable for 10 years after their marriage, but after that she seldom spoke to him again. He said his wife told him she had "adopted" Father Brommenschnecker, who obtained leave of absence from the La Crosse diocese 10 years ago.

TENNESSEE ARMS USE FOUND TO BE ILLEGAL

Washington.—(AP)—Secretary Good announced today that investigation of the use of national guard equipment by state police in Tennessee during the recent strike showed that such use was unlawful.

The secretary made public a letter to Governor Horton of Tennessee, stating he considered it his duty to bring the matter to the attention of the governor and requested he take such action as may be necessary to prevent the unlawful use of federal arms and equipment in the hands of the Tennessee National Guard.

YELLOW BIRD PREPARES TO RESUME HOP

French Plane Is Forced to Earth in Spain—Stow-away Is Blamed

Santander, Spain.—(AP)—The French transatlantic fliers late today postponed their departure from Paris in the monoplane Yellow Bird until tomorrow.

The time of their departure to complete their transatlantic voyage to Paris was set for 5 o'clock tomorrow morning (1 o'clock P. M. Saturday night, Appleton standard time).

Two Spanish airplanes from the Getafe aerodrome, carrying necessary parts for repairs to the Yellow Bird, arrived at 1.30 P. M.

Assault, LeFevre, and Lotti returned to Comillas this afternoon from Santander, where they were greeted by the civil governor and thanked him for the courtesies they had received.

Hundreds of automobiles arrived at Comillas during the day with persons curious to see the aviators.

AUTHORIZE LANDING

Paris.—(AP)—The French Air ministry late today authorized the Yellow Bird to go to the aviation center at Cazaux, near Arzon, not far from Bordeaux, where the plane probably will land some time tomorrow morning.

The authorization was sent after the crew of the transatlantic monoplane had telegraphed the air ministry certain minor repairs were necessary. These repairs will be made at Cazaux and the plane will then continue its flight to Paris.

ANXIOUS TO START

Comillas, Santander, Spain.—(AP)—Impatient to start for France, three men and a youth waited today for gasoline and new landing gear apparatus for their plane, the Yellow Bird, after completing the eighth eastward airplane crossing of the Atlantic. Shortage of fuel forced them down on a rocky beach west of here at 8.30 (2.30 P. M., Appleton time), last night, 500 miles short of their goal, LeBourget flying field, Paris.

The three men were Jean Assolant, pilot; Rene LeFevre, navigator; and Armenio Lotti, Jr., backer, all Frenchmen. The boy was Arthur Schreiber, 22-year-old American stowaway, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Schreiber, Portland, Maine, who hid himself in the rear storage

25,000 CHINESE JUNKS CONCENTRATE AT RIVER

Shanghai.—(AP)—Incoming steamers today reported viewing about 50 north of the mouth of the Yangtze River the amazing spectacle, hither to unknown here, of an estimated 25,000 ocean-going Chinese fishing junks, concentrated in an area of 10 miles square.

One ship master said the junks presented an appearance literally like that of a forest, extending further on any hand than he was able to see. Estimated that each junk carried at least six fishermen and seamen he said the concentration comprised a floating city of at least 150,000 persons.

MAN-EATING ANIMALS ROAM NEAR HONGKONG

Hongkong.—(AP)—Dispatches to the Hongkong Telegraph from Swatow, Kwangtung, today said that for the first time in many years man-eating beasts had terrorized districts within a 100-mile radius of that city.

"In the past week," the dispatch said, "beasts have mauled or eaten 10 persons. One girl was sent to a hospital as a result. One tiger has been slain and entire villages are being organized to hunt for the man-eaters."

Ambassador Dawes Hands Credentials To Monarch

Windsor, England.—(AP)—Under the lofty towers of Windsor castle General Charles G. Dawes bowed to King George today and presented his credentials as new American ambassador to Great Britain. The reception for the American by his majesty occupied a brief half hour and passed without unusual incident.

The former vice president was accompanied to the ancient seat of royalty by Mrs. Dawes, Ray Atherton, embassy counselor and Arthur Henderson, secretary for foreign affairs in the MacDonald cabinet.

State carriages, drawn by high stepping white horses, met the party at the train which brought them from Paddington station and conveyed them to the castle. After the

Under Fire

Sheriff Fred W. Giese yesterday declared he will fight charges of corruption in his office when his resignation was demanded by District Attorney Stanley A. Staidl.

Fake License Group Found In Illinois

Five Arrested for Supplying Fake Medical and Dental Certificates

Chicago.—(AP)—Seven persons, five already under arrest, have been indicted by the Cook county grand jury for supplying fake medical and dental licenses to unqualified persons for $3,000 to pay for them.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, said he expected further inquiry might show officials of the Illinois State Department of Registration were implicated. He based the belief partly on the fact that several of the licenses issued by the ring appeared genuine.

Headquarters of the ring were maintained in Springfield, the state capital, with agents in Chicago, St. Louis, New York and elsewhere. The Springfield headquarters and the evident genuineness of some of the licenses and nepotism letters led officials to believe that officials in the state department of registration and education might be involved.

Those in custody are Harry Goldstein, alias "Senator" Browsey, Springfield representative, Albert Karl Barron, believed to be the agent conducting negotiations between license purchasers and Goldstein; Dr. Robert L. Lattine, alleged western representative, arrested in St. Louis; and L. Mitchell Blaine, Chicago, former Marine and Henry Granger, both of Chicago, named as agents of the ring, are sought.

Goldstein was arrested in Springfield yesterday when he was issuing a license to Barron, Roche said. Following a telephone conversation with Goldstein, heard by investigators, Barron went to Springfield in custody of a detective and paid $500 to Goldstein for the license, authorities declared.

When arrested, according to Roche, Goldstein said: "Well, you got me. But remember I don't want all of the $1,650 that came to Springfield."

JURY FAILS TO AGREE IN HURLEY ARSON CASE

Hurley.—(AP)—The jury which heard evidence against John Blodgett, Hurley, policeman charged with the arson of a building here after 12 hours of deliberation and was excused by Judge G. N. Haysworth.

Indications were that the case will come up for retrial at the January term of court. Reports said that the jury stood eight to four for conviction.

The specific charge against Blodgett was that he set fire to the Moose saloon building in Hurley July 10, 1928, in order to collect insurance of $5,000 on the building and $1,000 on the contents.

The building was owned by his wife, Mrs. Mary Blodgett.

Evidence was introduced by the state tending to show that an odor of gasoline was noticeable in the vicinity of the building on the night of the fire.

Blodgett denied the charge and said the odor might have come from a kerosene stove that had been used by people living on the second floor of the building.

GENERAL RECOVERS FROM HIS ILLNESS

West Point, N. Y.—(AP)—Major General Hugh L. Scott, 75, U. S. A., retired, was out of bed today and on the road to recovery after an attack of influenza and fatigue which slowed him during the recent commencement exercises at the United States Military academy. The strain of the commencement activities is believed to have been too much for his advanced age.

General Scott has a distinguished military record dating from his graduation in 1876. He served on many diplomatic missions for the government, chiefly as peace officer in Indian disputes and for several years was chief of staff of the army.

SHERIFF SAYS HE WILL FIGHT BRIBE CHARGE

District Attorney to Lay Charges Before Governor Kohler

COLLECT AFFIDAVITS

Documents Tell Story of Corruption in Sheriff's Office

Sheriff Fred W. Giese yesterday afternoon flatly refused to resign his office when his resignation was demanded by District Attorney Stanley A. Staidl who has been investigating charges of corruption in the sheriff's office.

Armed with more than a half dozen affidavits revealing that money had been paid to the sheriff's office for "protection," that slot machines confiscated in the county had been re-sold to the operators and that prisoners had been released from jail before the expiration of their terms the district attorney summoned sheriff Giese to his office late yesterday afternoon and after briefly reviewing the charges demanded his immediate resignation.

The sheriff, apparently cognizant of the rumors that have been rampant in Outagamie-co for the last two weeks, flatly refused to resign, protesting that he was ignorant of any wrongdoing in his office and declared he welcomed an investigation of his office.

"I am innocent of all these charges," he said, "and I will prove these affidavits are untrue, if the sheriff declared. If I knew any corruption in my office I know nothing about it and the sooner you start your investigation of my conduct the more pleased I will be."

The district attorney announced that formal charges will be placed before Governor Walter J. Kohler next week with the request that he conduct an investigation into the charges and, if substantiated, remove Sheriff Giese from office.

CHARGE CORRUPTION

Wide-spread corruption in the office of the sheriff is charged in affidavits signed by Dan Kelly, turnkey at the county jail until a few days ago. Kelly appeared before the district attorney this week and told a long story of selling "protection" to slot machine owners and saloon keepers and releasing prisoners from jail, all, he says, with the knowledge of Sheriff Giese. The affidavits indicated that Kelly was a "sub-broker" the sheriff, and the affidavits "shaken down." The affidavits told the men who were paying for "protection" and the amounts that were demanded. The affidavits also

Masons Observe 75th Anniversary Of Waverly Lodge

200 ATTEND JUBILEE AT LOCAL TEMPLE

Veteran Members Review History of Appleton Organization

The diamond jubilee of Waverly lodge No. 51, Free and Accepted Masons, was celebrated at the Temple Friday evening. Approximately 200 Masons from Appleton and surrounding cities were present. Leo P. Nohl of Milwaukee, was the chief speaker.

The history of the lodge was reviewed by A. H. Wickesburg, and Charles W. Stribley, oldest past master of the organization, spoke on Way Back When. R. A. Hatch, oldest member of the lodge, also spoke. G. W. Buchanan acted as toastmaster. Miss Dora Edin sang and the Fullinwider string trio played a number of selections.

The history of Waverly lodge runs along a definite line with the early history of Appleton. It was organized in the days when there was a deep pine and dense forest between Appleton and Grand Chute, and when transportation was carried over plank roads from Appleton to Menasha, Kaukauna and Shawano.

On St. John's Day, Dec. 27, 1828, while Wisconsin was still part of Michigan territory, a movement for a Masonic lodge was started in Green Bay. Application was made to the nearest existing lodge at Detroit, Mich., and Meconomee lodge No. 274, partly a military lodge, was formed. Early difficulties were encountered, considerable attention because of his claim to the title of the lost-son of France, and whose loan from Amos Lawrence indirectly led to the founding of Lawrence college, was a member of the Meconomee lodge.

LODGE DISCONTINUED

Partly because of the dispersion of members, and perhaps because of the military nature of the lodge and the anti-Masonic movement existent at that time, Meconomee lodge was eventually discontinued. It is not known definitely when or why. However, it was before 1847, because in that year Washington lodge No. 21, Green Bay, was formed, and several of its charter members were active members of the old Meconomee lodge.

Three members of Washington lodge acted as the principal officers at the first meeting of Waverly lodge, held May 2, 1854. At that time the population of Appleton was around 1,500. There had been a Masonic lodge organized in 1851, but disbanded for reasons unknown to followers of Appleton history. J. Kipp Anderson was worshipful master of that lodge, and other officers were A. S. Sanborn, a district attorney, and John D. Pierce.

The six charter members of Waverly lodge were James W. Murray, P. H. Smith, M. C. McGowan, Peter White, John Kohler, and Amos Story, Appleton's first mayor. H. S. Eggleston, father of George Eggleston, after whom the local post of the Grand Army of the Republic was named, was the first candidate, and Anson Ballard was the second.

The first meeting of the lodge was held at Adkin's hall, situated in a building now occupied by the Gmelin candy store, corner of College and Morrison-st. The room evidently was not constructed for winter weather, for that fall and winter were obtained in Hart hall.

This was a two story building with a smaller area third story, located at the corner of College and Oneida-st, later occupied by the Commercial National bank building. The Masonic quarters were on the third floor. From there the lodge was moved in 1886 to Crawford hall, the building on the corner of College and Appleton-st occupied for many years by the Rossmel shoe store. In 1891 it was moved to the third floor of the Commercial National bank building, remaining there until the new temple was completed in 1924.

PLAYED LEADING ROLE

Despite the fact that the city was new and that life in those settlement days was strenuous, apparently more attention was given to social intercourse than now, not only among the members of the lodge, but between organizations.

Money in those days was scarce. An oyster supper was given to visiting brethren on one occasion, and the two members who furnished the supper did not receive payment until over a year later. The lodge had only a few members, and the maintenance cost was quite a financial strain. At one time in its early history the lodge had its few possessions insured so as to furnish collateral for a loan of some $400, at an interest rate of 12 per cent. The hall rent was $30.00 a year, under the lease. The original dues were $2 a year, and entrance fees amounted to $35.00.

Discussion of the possibility of erecting a Masonic Temple continued for 20 years before the project took definite form in 1921. The first shovel of earth was turned by Adam C. Remley, then worshipful master, and the Temple was dedicated on Nov. 26, 1924.

The list of worshipful masters since the lodge was organized includes: James W. Murray, Anson Ballard, John Jewett, Tracy D. Bingham, G. I. Brewster, Samuel Bond, Henry Turner, D. C. Balcock, H. S. Balcock, John Goodland, Sr., H. A. Chapman, John F. Rose, T. T. Beveridge, J. H. Cook, John Bottenneck, W. L. Conkey, Chas. W. Stribley, John Kahn, C. S. Little, C. H. Sedgwick, G. S. Sweetman, F. M. Sedgwick, C. D. Thompson, David Nelson, G. H. Packard, Henry W. Tuttle, Peter W. Drysdale, A. H. Wickesburg, George L. Patterson, Olin A. Buxton, Homer H. Benson, F. P. Mackworth, J. H. Brooks, and J. H. Brooks.

SUPREME COURT MAY ON STATUS OF DOG AND HORSE RACING

Chicago — (AP)—The state supreme court may have to settle the question of whether horse racing is legal and dog racing is not.

Judge Harry Fisher has given the state's attorney five days in which to bring proof before him that it is illegal for a dog to chase a mechanical rabbit around a track, when horse racing is regarded as lawful.

"There is a serious question here," Judge Fisher said. "It is whether the state legislature can say that may be done on horses racing but not on races on dogs or other animals. Until that is decided by a higher court I intend to protect the property rights of those who have investments in the dog tracks."

Judge Fisher's comment resulted from a petition by the Hawthorne, Fairview and Thorn-ton dog tracks for a contempt citation for those responsible for raids on the tracks this week. Judge Fisher granted the track owners a five-day injunction, to prevent raids by the state's attorney and sheriff's officers.

STATE FIGHTS FOR RIGHT TO TRY OFFICER

Minnesota Authorities Determined to Bring White Before Own Courts

International Falls, Minn. — (AP)—A contest between federal and state officials for the custody of E. J. White, border patrolman charged with killing Henry Varkkula, loomed today, as the Canadian border town waited for executive action from President Hoover to whom has been sent an appeal for relief from what citizens described as "arrogant lawlessness" on the part of patrolmen.

The message to the president was dispatched from here last night, following filing of a charge of second degree murder against White, accused of killing the Big Falls confectioner last Saturday night while searching for liquor runners.

The patrolman's hearing on the charge has been set for July 2, and was refused to jail in default of $5,000 bond, while it remained uncertain whether he would be tried in a federal or state court.

L. L. Drill, U. S. district attorney at St. Paul, announced that he has been authorized from Washington by Attorney General William D. Mitchell to petition for removal to the federal courts of the case against White, who since the shooting has been in the custody of Koochiching county officials. David Hurlburt, county attorney here, held to his original plans today to fight any effort of federal officials to take the case out of the state courts and transfer it to federal jurisdiction.

LOWMAN BACKS WHITE

Assistant Secretary Lowman of the treasury, has taken the stand that "White" was acting within his authority under the law and has a perfect defense.

Bitter resentment against the activities of patrolmen was expressed in the message sent to President Hoover. The telegram, following a meeting of prominent townsmen, was sent over the signature of County Attorney Hurlburt, several town officials and prominent businessmen.

"In our utter helplessness, terror and distraction, we are at last resorting to you and to the authority you are capable of invoking," the message said. "For God's sake help us."

The telegram recited that the patrolmen have "haunted their self-given superiority to law local and state laws. While we would, when dealing without our own citizens, enforce our laws with vigor, we have yielded to the arrogant lawlessness of these agents rather than submit our peace officers to the risk of slaughter," the telegram continued.

The citizens told the president that they appealed to him "because other officers of the government, including an assistant secretary to the treasury, have failed us." Citizens of this border town have "given support to every legal method" to enforce the prohibition laws in this vicinity, the message said.

"One of these agents within the week murdered one of our respected and reputable fellow citizens," the telegram read.

DOUG'S FORMER WIFE TO BE MARRIED AGAIN

Mrs. Fairbanks, born in Providence, R. I., was well known in eastern society circles prior to her marriage to Fairbanks. She was a daughter of Daniel Sully, one time well known cotton broker in New York city.

NANKING REGIME CUTS DOWN TARIFF ON TRUCKS

Shanghai — (AP)—The minister of commerce of the Nanking Nationalist government has allowed a reduction in the tariff on automobiles, trucks and chassis from 22 1/2 to 10 per cent. Dealers consider the action an important step in the direction of further development of the Chinese automobile market in which trucks are a most important factor.

The action is considered also a step in the direction of preparing conditions for foreign makers to erect assembly plants in China, this development being dependent upon low duty for un assembled cars and parts.

Chinese Airplanes Enter Rain-Making Experiment

Hongkong, China — (AP)—There was great rejoicing in Hongkong today as a heavy rainfall began, promising to alleviate greatly a serious water shortage troubling the community here. The weather bureau forecast stated that an all-night downpour was in sight.

Hongkong — (AP)—The weather observatory and the royal aviation force, in collaboration with the government, shortly will undertake rain-making experiments with a view to alleviating the severe water famine which exists here.

Two airplanes will ascend above the clouds and sprinkle a powdered chemical (named deoline) with a refrigerating effect which it is hoped will precipitate a downpour. Results of the experiments are awaited with the greatest interest.

The government has chartered a tanker for transporting water from Koonmoon, on the Sikiang near Canton. The first consignment of water from Shanghai arrived today on the Dollar liner President Adams. Another ship brought in 1,000 tons which was promptly pumped into emergency tanks and released to the public. It was consumed quickly.

The island government has issued emergency water regulations empowering the director of public works to requisition boats, lighters, launches and such steamships as are needed to relieve the water famine, which is growing in seriousness. The regulations also empower it to take possession of any source of water supply on the island with reservoirs and pipe lines.

Kowloon, on the mainland facing Hongkong, is also suffering an acute water shortage. At Macao the shortage is so great that steamers have been unable to procure boiler water, resulting in disruption of shipping.

INTEREST CENTERS IN UTILITY ISSUES DURING THIS WEEK

Credit Conditions Show Easier Tone—Steel Has Firm Undertone

BY STANLEY W. PRENSOIL (Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York — (AP)—Revival of speculative activity in the public utility shares, a score of which established new high records, over-shadowed all other developments in this week's stock market. Prices in the general railroad and industrial lists failed to make much progress as the buying was of a rather selective character and generally limited to issues in which special developments were pending.

Credit conditions disclosed an easier tendency but in the case of call money this may have been due to a temporarily heavy accumulation of funds here. No change was made in the rediscount rate. The Federal Reserve statements disclosed an increase in government securities and commercial paper holdings, but officials laid stress on the fact that this did not indicate any relaxation in their credit policy. Brokers' loans were unchanged from the week before.

The rally in the public utilities received its chief stimulus from market reports, although excellent current earnings and optimistic prospects of the growth of the industry also played their part in the week's advance. One of the largest undertakings in prospect was either a merger or the placing under joint control of a group of northeastern power and light companies.

STEEL ISSUES FIRM

Steel shares displayed a fairly firm undertone in reflection of the unexpectedly small decrease in the tonnage of these agents, and continued high rate of output and consumption, and the optimistic forecasts of first half year's earnings by the leading producers. Some of the independent steels, notably Crucible and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, moved into new high ground during the week.

Failure of the Colorado Springs oil conservation conference to reach an agreement brought disappointment to the holders of many of those issues. Operators for the rise in oil stocks apparently foresaw the results as no attempt was made to bring about a general rally in the market, which was slightest most of the week. Except for a spectacular rise in Auburn, the floating supply of which is small, the motors were also laggarde. A few of the accessories, notably Electric Auto Lite and Murray Corporation, enjoyed temporary outbursts of strength.

Food stocks were in fairly good demand on reports of new combinations in that industry. Fleischmann standing out with an advance to new high ground. Major activity in the airplane issues also was an upside, with buying probably stimulated by the latest transatlantic flight. Alcohol issues soared to new high ground of merger reports. Chemical shares were mixed. General Electric soared into new high ground and there was a fair demand for the other electrical equipment issues.

Rails quietly forged ahead with special buying in such issues as Erie and New Haven in which favorable dividend developments are believed to be pending. Atchison also trended briskly upward after the sharp decline which followed President Storey's denial of stock dividend rumors. Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis jumped into new high ground on Friday.

QUESTION MAN IN MURDER OF CO-ED IN OHIO

Body Found on Rifle Range Is Identified by School Companions

Columbus, O. — (AP)—Theora Hix, 24, recently past graduate student at Ohio State university whose mutilated body was found on a rifle range and identified last night by school companions who had known her as a quiet student, was the subject of intense police investigation today as police questioned a man with whom she had a "date" on the night of her death.

Two boys found the body yesterday when they went to the rifle range to practice. The head had been punctured 17 times. The throat and body bore deep gashes.

Seven hours later Alice and Beatrice Buxton, students who roomed with the girl near the University hospital, identified the body through personal effects after notifying police of her absence. The features were unrecognizable.

Police learned that the girl had gone to the hospital Thursday night to inquire about part-time employment there to defray expenses at the school of medicine during the summer semester. At 7:45 she left telling Bertha Dillon, switchboard operator, that she had to keep an engagement and that she would return before 10 o'clock.

FAILS TO REAPPEAR

She failed to reappear at the hospital or her home, but it was not until late yesterday that alarm was felt for her safety, the girl's roommates believing she had spent the night with friends.

The man whose state employe was sought after the discovery of the girl's body on the New York Central railroad life range here yesterday. He walked into the county morgue today, looked at the body and talked briefly with Coroner Joseph Murphy.

After he left, Murphy telephoned police headquarters and detectives went to the man's residence where he was taken into custody. He was taken at once to detective headquarters and questioned.

Last night the man called the morgue from Bono, and asked if anything had happened to Miss Hix. He was quoted by attaches at the morgue as saying he knew the girl, had been in Columbus Thursday night and returned to Bono yesterday.

The man had been an employe of the state two or three years, police said, but withheld further information as to his connections. He is about 40 years old, and in general answers the description of a man with whom the girl's friends said she had several appointments recently.

Indians And Whites Take Part In Canyon Ceremony

Marble Gorge, Ariz. — (AP)—Indians whose ancestors feared the turbulent waters of the Colorado river and its deep canyon walls, along with white descendants of pioneer forefathers, dated across the stream only with bated breath, yesterday, took part in the dedication ceremonies of the Lee's Ferry bridge which spans the Grand canyon, near here.

Engineers who overcame many obstacles in the two-year task of constructing the great arch which spans the gorge 467 feet above the muddy stream, listened to words of commendation from governors of four states and other prominent men of the southwest.

Governors J. R. Phillips of Arizona; H. C. Dillon of New Mexico; F. B. Balzar of Nevada and George H. Dern of Utah, along with A. W. Evans, first counselor of the Latter Day Saints church, addressed the thousands gathered for the ceremonies.

Completion of the bridge opened the picturesque northern Arizona country to the tourist and joined the transcontinental north and south highways, designated as U. S. highways and shortened the route approximately 800 miles.

More than one thousand Hopi and Navajo Indians from nearby reservations, dressed in native costume, performed tribal dances to the rhythmic beat of tom-toms.

An old Sioux Indian pipe of peace which once belonged to Chief Red Cloud of the Black Hills country, was smoked by the four governors present, following this a mock wedding ceremony, representing the joining together of the north and southwest, was performed.

The bridge is located near the site of the historic Lee's ferry, over which pioneers had crossed by covered wagons in their journey westward. Two years ago the Colorado at flood stage, in wrathful fashion, swept the ferry away, carrying three men to death.

GRAIN TRADERS ARE WATCHING NEW U.S. MARKETING MEASURE

Law Becomes Effective as 1929 Winter Wheat Crop Goes to Market

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN (Associated Press Market Editor)

Chicago — (AP)—All eyes in the grain trade are centering on the probable severe test which the new agricultural marketing act is now quickly to encounter.

The law becomes operative almost simultaneously with the first rush of the United States 1929 winter wheat crop to market, and according to some trade authorities danger exists that millions of bushels may rot on the ground. In other well-informed quarters, however, it is suggested that a government controlled $500,000,000 organization for relieving the farm situation is apt to have a tremendously effective influence, and that foreign countries are far from being in sympathy with price declines.

Facing developments which are being watched the world over, wheat values this morning compared with a week ago were 1-2 to 1 cent a bushel lower, with corn showing 1-2 to 2-1 cents advance, oats unchanged to 1-8 cent off, and provisions ranging from 5 cent decline to a rise of 77 cents.

OTHER FACTORS

Latest comprehensive advices are that the new domestic winter wheat crop has commenced to move on to High Cliff, Texas, that numerous combines are at work in the next week or so, and that before the end of the month harvesting should get a good start in Kansas. A yield of 160,000,000 bushels is predicted for Kansas, an amount equal to more than 25 per cent of the total prospective output of 622,000,000 bushels of the United States as a whole. Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska to gether have an aggressive production of roughly 45 per cent of the yield for the entire country, and this year's crop promises to be the fourth largest on record, comparing with 579,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Meanwhile, serious complaints of need of moisture are coming from the Canadian prairie wheat fields, and although there have been showers the effects have been hardly sufficient to be of use except for a few days. Aside from big-scale measures which may be brought into action by the new federal farm board, a popular forecast here is that the making or breaking of the wheat market this season will be in the spring wheat area, both sides of the Canadian boundary. Talk is also heard that the domestic winter crop may not turn out as large as expected, some reports implying that in many places the wheat has rather small head and much straw, a condition the results of which will not be fully evident until threshing time.

Corn values are being largely governed by reports that the corn crop is a fortnight to three weeks late, that stocks of corn are much smaller than a year ago, and that the June movement of wheat to market appears likely to prove moderate. Oats receipts are small, and crop news virtually a stand-off.

An outstanding factor in the provision market is that the price ratio of hogs and corn is about the best witnessed for a long time.

5 Die Of Heat In New York--Storms Bring No Relief

2 KILLED BY LIGHTNING IN EMPIRE STATE

Electrical Storms Cause Heavy Damage in New York and New Jersey

New York (AP)—Severe electrical storms along the Atlantic seaboard, accompanied in this city by hail, have brought virtually no relief today to the period of torrid weather.

The mercury mounted to 90 degrees in New York, making it the hottest June 14 in 37 years. Five persons died of the heat and seven were prostrated. Beaches were crowded and many spent the night on the sand to enjoy the cooling ocean breezes.

A 15-minute rain and hail storm shortly after dusk brought temporary relief. During the storm a bolt of lightning struck the new 13-story French hospital in Thirtieth-st. tearing a 500-pound terra-cotta ball from the roof and ripping a ton of bricks from the roof sun parlor wall. A total of 126 patients and visitors were thrown into excitement but no one was injured.

Two persons were killed by lightning in upper New York state, while considerable property damage was done throughout the state and in Camden and Newark, N. J.

BOY HIT BY BOLT
A lightning bolt that struck five trees in the yard of Howard Baker at West Glens Falls, N. Y., plowed a furrow 13 feet long in the ground, entered the side of the house and after passing over four of the Baker children struck and killed another son, Franklin, 12. At Malone 14-year-old Jenny Holmes, was killed by a bolt as she hurried home to escape the storm.

At Camden a single bolt knocked one man unconscious, killed a dog and shattered a flag pole atop the Broadway-Merchants Trust company building. High winds that accompanied the storm at Newark damaged several airplanes at the Newark Metropolitan airport and prevented the landing for 20 minutes of a plane from Boston carrying eight passengers, the pilot kept the plane at an altitude of 1,200 feet until the storm subsided.

DISTRICT ENGINEER HERE ON INSPECTION
Col. J. J. Kingman, Milwaukee, district government engineer returned to his home after spending the past few days in this section of the valley on an inspection tour. He inspected work on the new De Pere dam and other engineering projects on the Fox river in this vicinity.

HANTSCHER TO ATTEND STATE CLERKS' MEET
John E. Hantscher, county clerk, will go to Shawano on June 19, 20, and 21, for the annual convention of the Wisconsin County Clerks' association. Mr. Hantscher, secretary of the state association, will be accompanied by his wife. Convention headquarters will be at the inn on Shawano lake.

FIREMEN GROUPS END AND BEGIN VACATIONS

THIRTY MORE RURAL SCHOOLS SEEK MUSIC FOR 1929 - 30 TERM

Meeting Hopes Entire County Will Enter Program Instituted Last Year

With 30 more school districts already on record as favoring the county rural school music program, A. G. Meating may be possible to enlist the entire county in the move for the 1929-30 school year.

Last year there were 40 districts enlisted in the experiment which proved a huge success. Results of the music program were shown at a demonstration given in Appleton by more than 1,000 rural school students in connection with the annual school board convention.

So impressed were the parents and school board members with this demonstration that 30 more districts have already expressed willingness to enter the plan next year.

The music program started last fall with 40 districts divided into two sections. In each section a music supervisor was appointed, who had charge of the work in 20 districts. Weekly visits were made at which time progress was checked and the work was outlined for the succeeding week. The rural teachers had charge of the music which was included in the daily curriculum.

The plan for installing music in the rural schools was prepared by Dr. Carl Baker, head of the public school music department at Lawrence Conservatory of Music, and Mr. Meating.

A special course in music training was installed in the Outagamie Rural Normal school at Kaukauna, where the county's rural school teachers are trained. Teachers graduating this year from the normal school are especially equipped to handle the music program as well as the regular school work. Teachers not attending the normal school were given instructions at a special course at the training school.

The cost of the music is but $50 per year for each district. This includes the music supervisors salary, expenses, and covers the cost of music and other supplies needed for the work.

School districts will act on the music plan at the annual meeting on Monday, July 8.

With the enlistment of all those districts which were in the program last year practically assured by the good results which were obtained, and with the additional enlistment of 30 more districts, Mr. Meating is hoping the entire county will be in the program next year. There are 122 districts in the county.

GIESE FIGHTS MOVE TO MAKE HIM QUIT JOB

Giese Says He Is Ignorant

states that the sheriff destroyed a record of these payments which Kelly had in his office in the jail. Some of Kelly's revelations have been corroborated by affidavits from men who admit dealings with the sheriff's office. Some of the men approached by Kelly from the office refused to be "bushy" and affidavits have been secured stating that attempts to collect money from them were made.

ADMITTS PAYMENT

Rumors that things were not all well in the sheriff's office have been circulating around the county for weeks. The matter was placed before the district attorney a week ago or so in the form of an affidavit from a man who stated that he had been approached by men from the sheriff's office who demanded a sum of money to be permitted to continue operating his distillery and that he had paid part of the assessment made against him.

Whether Kelly was removed from his office or whether he resigned has not been determined definitely. Kelly says he resigned and Giese says he was "fired." At any rate Kelly was wearing the star of a deputy sheriff as late as Thursday of this week and was in his office in the county jail as late as Wednesday. The sheriff this morning made a notation in the book containing the record of deputy appointments that Kelly's commission as deputy was revoked on May 29, 1929. Kelly's star was not turned in before Thursday night.

While Giese was not informed of the contents of Kelly's affidavit, he said he would be able to prove that all his statements were false. He also declared that he has been doing some investigating himself and that he has some startling revelations to make.

GOES TO GOVERNOR

The entire matter will be placed before Governor Kohler on Monday of next week. The usual procedure in cases of this kind is for the governor to appoint a referee to take the testimony at a public hearing and the governor will then decide on the evidence thus secured. An attorney from the attorney-general's office usually is delegated to assist in the investigation to make sure that the testimony is properly presented and that the field is thoroughly covered.

An effort will be made to secure the appointment of a referee as soon as possible so that the governor's investigation can get underway. Mr. Giese was elected sheriff last November, succeeding Otto Zuehlke who held the office for two years. Giese won the Republican nomination in a six cornered race in the primary election and defeated Martin Verhaagen, Kimberly, Democratic candidate, in the November election. He took office on Jan. 7, 1929.

BOY SHERIFF FACES FEDERAL CHARGES

Lyall Wright Indicted on
States Grand Jury

Madison —(P)—The brief career of Lyall T. Wright, World War soldier, "boy" sheriff of Juneau-co and candidate for congress, was climaxed here Friday when a federal grand jury returned three indictments against him that may force him to serve a five-year jail sentence, pay $10,000 fine or both.

True bills were returned to Federal Judge Claude Z. Luse charging Wright with possession of a still, sale of liquor and conspiracy with 16 others to violate national prohibition laws.

Of the 16, the seven operators of the giant still at Kilbourn, when federal and state agents arrived there last Nov. 27, were indicted.

Others of the conspiring group will be called as government witnesses, according to the district attorney.

With Wright and the still operators were indicted nearly 150 persons, mostly for liquor law violations, in Superior, La Crosse, Eau Claire, Chippewa Falls, Madison and other western Wisconsin localities. In all, 38 indictments were returned, the largest number, followers of the court said, since World War days.

Twelve "overt acts" were charged against Wright and those named in the conspiracy warrant with him. They include statements that Wright attempted to have federal agents kept out of Juneau county, that one of the conspirators sought permission from state agents to ship beer to Chicago, that Wright said a truck load of beer in the county and confiscated a load of alcohol, only to sell it that he and his companions attempted to bribe a federal agent with $2,500, and that they owned, built, operated and sold the product of the Kilbourn still.

FARM BILL SIGNED AND BECOMES LAW

of agriculture will make the ninth. Speculation already has been going the rounds over whom the chief executive will select and a number of names have been mentioned for the posts.

Enactment of the farm bill marked the achievement of the first goal set by Mr. Hoover in calling the special session. The tariff, the other major question, still remains before the senate.

In signing the bill today, however, Mr. Hoover had the satisfaction of knowing that one of the major problems of the campaign had been acted upon despite predictions by opponents that the farm law would prove inadequate.

TAKE PHOTOGRAPHS

The president and the congressional leaders were bathed in photographic flood lights as the chief executive wrote his name on the measure.

"This is a well signed bill," observed Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, a member of the famous McNary-Haugen team, adding that the president had gone through the motions three times.

Mr. Hoover used two pens in attaching his signature writing "Herbert" with one and "Hoover" with the other. He handed one pen to Representative Haugen, chairman of the senate and house agricultural committees, respectively.

It was exactly 12:08 when the bill was signed.

PRaises FARM BILL

Chicago—(P)—The signing of the agricultural marketing bill by President Hoover was the final step in laying the foundation of a national agricultural policy, Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau federation declared here today.

"It is a policy forecasting an immediate turn in the economic position of the farming industry," said a statement issued by him.

"Farming will become an increasingly profitable business. For the past 15 years the farmers have struggled against inequalities arising from the fact that other groups in our national life existed under an economic system based on government aid and protection that resulted to their peculiar advantage. The fact that farming has been able to survive throughout its long struggles has been due, I believe, to this nation's almost unlimited resources."

"In the past few years, however, agriculture has reached the limit of its endurance. The farmers' could not suffer much longer or more severely without serious impairment to the prosperity of all groups."

"The farm relief measure comes at an opportune moment and I am confident that with the assurance of stability which this bill will give agriculture we will start again confident of a constantly increasing prosperity."

Failure To Reach Paris Laid To Secret Passenger

rising to a great height. We rose in fact up to the 7,000 foot level, but the rain and intense cold forced us to come down."

"It was so cold up there that the thermometer showed several degrees below freezing," LeFevre continued.

"Finally, 27 hours after we had left Old Orchard, we sighted the Portuguese coast, but what was left of our thousand gallons of gasoline was being rapidly exhausted and we realized then it would be impossible to go as far as Paris."

"It was then that we decided that we must come down. We followed the coast northward, but it was several hours before we discovered the beach which appeared an excellent place to land, so down we came."

"I told the Associated Press correspondent: 'I am very glad that I have placed my name on the heights with those who have followed in Lincolns footsteps.'"

"Before the trip I was weighing in my mind the difficulties to be encountered because of added weight, but I decided to take a chance, fearing only to be discovered before the hop off. When the plane got off the ground I felt a great relief, and I felt sure that the stunt would succeed."

The first thing Arthur asked for, when he landed on Spanish soil, was a bed. The boy had not slept for 48 hours. He could not close his eyes on board, especially after the aviation had told him about the risks he had taken and how he had endangered their very lives.

Whenever the photographers came to take his picture, he seized the American flag which the Yellow Bird brought and waved it theatrically.

The youth knew few words of Spanish, with those few he told some who talked to him he was a vaudeville actor and that his parents were from Budapest. He said he hid in the tail of the plane on the night prior to the flight.

He was unable to sleep all last night, the clamor of the little town's inhabitants outside the hotel keeping him all four awake.

REVERE YOUR FLAG, CONCERT AUDIENCE IS TOLD BY JUDGE

Jurist Uses Appleton World War Veteran as Example for Others

"Never forget to revere your flag," Such was the admonition of Judge Henry M. Fellenz, Fond du Lac, to several hundred persons who attended the concert of the 120th field artillery band at Pierce park Friday evening.

"Recall what that flag must have meant to the builders of the constitution," Judge Fellenz said. "Recall what it meant to the men on the first American man of war when their ship was saluted for the first time by a foreign power, what it meant at Bunker Hill, at Valley Forge, and when it flew on high at Yorktown; recall what it meant to the men who saw it beaten down at Washington in 1812, to Frances Scott Key when he wrote the Star Spangled Banner."

"What it meant to the men who carried it into Mexico; to the men who carried it through the Civil War and saw the union preserved; what it meant when it went to aid the oppressed in Cuba in 1895, what it means when it came to aid the beaten and disheartened allies in the trenches in 1918 and what it meant when it led the victorious armies through Paris after the armistice."

And then bringing his references closer to home, Judge Fellenz asked that Appleton people recall what the flag means and always meant to that Appleton world war veteran who represented the state at the dedication of the monument to the unknown soldier at Washington, "the greatest dedication the world has ever known."

Paying further tribute to the Appleton veteran, Judge Fellenz said that only the highest reverence for the flag could have made the man who served "only as a dead-in-the-wool American, could," go through the shot and shell and disease of war, to come back, as he named by the governor of his state as one of the outstanding world war veterans in the commonwealth.

Judge Fellenz upbraided his audience and asked it to heed the instances where, through ignorance or neglect, people fail to pay respect to the flag, as for instance when it passes in parade, and removal of a hat is all that is necessary to pay respect.

The history of flag day, how observance was started by the Elk organization and became a part of the regular ritual of some 1,500 clubs in the country, and how it later became a national day of observance was recalled to the audience by J. P. Frank, Appleton attorney, who introduced Judge Fellenz. The address at the park was the local Elk club's observance of the day.

SHAW'S NEW COMEDY OPENED IN POLAND

Warsaw —(P)—Bernard Shaw's new political comedy "The Apple Cart" was given its world premiere here last night under its Polish title "Wielki Kram."

The production to the Shawian repertoire was warmly welcomed in Poland by a brilliant first night audience composed of members of parliament, the diplomatic corps, society people and artists and authors. Seats had been sold out for a week in advance.

President Mscicki was among the prominent political personalities in the audience who saw themselves satirized in the inimitable Shawian manner. The play is an expose of political quackery. The scene is laid in England.

The action takes place in an Utopian future, when only the madder portion of the British people takes part in the parliamentary elections. There is a good and wise king, Magnus, and a foolish cabinet of ministers, including even a foolish Socialist minister. In one scene the American ambassador proposes that the United States come under the British crown, but the king has qualms over the proposal.

He expressed his qualms in favorably reflections on British national character. Mr. Shaw speaking in Polish directly in favor of his countrymen, which is rather a rare happening with him.

Among the notable performers were Junesza Stempowski, one of the foremost living Polish actors, and Madame Przybloska Potocka.

STATE LIMITS RIGHT OF "OIL STOCK" SALES

Madison —(P)—The Wisconsin Petroleum Development company, which has secured oil leases on a large area in Oneida and Forest counties forest land may only sell stock in Oneida and adjoining counties and must tell purchasers that the state geologist thinks there is little oil under the land.

The ruling was made by the securities department of the railroad commission today. The stock must be sold for cash at par, without commissions and the particular form of subscription contract that virtually advises against purchase must be used, the "blue sky" department rule.

At a hearing in Rhinelander recently on the application for permission to sell stock in the company, Miss Olga Steir, attorney for the securities department, was told by the backers they had found oil by a use of a device that had "worked" in the Muskogee, Mich., oil field. State Geologist E. F. Egan and Prof. W. H. Twenofel of the state university geology department, however, said exhaustive tests had revealed lack of oil in commercial quantities.

RADIO SET IN AUTO SHOCKS TRAFFIC COP

Car Owner Listens to Church Services While Traveling in Auto

Boston —(P)—How radio over-axed traffic policeman is related by the Rev. Harwood B. Catlin of Johannesburg, South Africa, a missionary under the American board of commissioners for foreign missions. Mr. Catlin now is in the United States on furlough.

"It is the custom of a local broadcasting station," says Mr. Catlin, "to extend the privilege of its use on Sunday evenings to the various churches in routine."

A neighbor of mine, Hughes, is quite a wireless expert. He had fitted up his little runabout car with a receiver and speaker so that he could enjoy programs while traveling. One Sunday night while returning home through town he reached a street crossing and was given the 'go' signal by the traffic policeman. "Suddenly the officer signaled him to stop. He did this so suddenly that Hughes stalled his engine. When the traffic jam had cleared the policeman saw what had happened and stepped over to the car to explain to Hughes why he had stopped him so suddenly. Just as he reached the stalled motor and had laid his hand on the side, preparatory to speaking, a sepulchral voice, coming seemingly from nowhere, said: 'Let us pray.'"

"The cop looked up aghast, his face filled with amazement. Then came a sonorous prayer, pouring out apparently from the bottom of the car. It was some few seconds before the surprised policeman realized that he was hearing the regular Sunday evening service broadcast."

MELLODY FARM TO BE MADE COUNTRY CLUB

Chicago—(P)—Melody Farm, the fairyland that the late J. Ogden Armour created for his daughter, Lolita, and which a year ago was sold by his widow to help settle her husband's debts with Armour and Company, is to become one of America's most exclusive business and country clubs, it was learned today.

The new club is to have a national membership of millions, and will provide a place where they may combine business with golf. The old Italian style residence which until a few weeks ago was occupied by Mrs. Armour, is to be the clubhouse. Melody Farm was sold by Mrs. Armour to a group of 26 Chicagoans who were reputed to have paid $2,500,000 for the 846 acre estate. The plan then was to divide the property to provide home sites for the purchasers.

The estate was originally owned by five persons, one of whom was Martin Melloy after whom Armour named it. One of the annoyances of which Armour often complained thereafter was that the newspapers invariably referred to it as "Melody" farm.

There are two 10-acre lakes on the estate which is elaborately landscaped. It has often been referred to as the "Fairyland" the Armours created for their daughter, who now is Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Jr.

HARVARD PROF SCORES FEDERAL BANK GROUP

Swampscott, Mass.—(P)—The board of governors of the Federal Reserve bank system today was criticised by Prof. O. M. W. Sprague of Harvard university, in an address before the New England Bankers' association convention, for its failure to raise the interest rate in a degree drastic enough to accomplish general restriction of call money manipulation by banks and credit situation. Professor Sprague said the governors ought to have raised the interest rate more sharply and not allowed the matter to drag along. Increase in the rate of one per cent would have served the purpose intended but the one-half of the one per cent increases made on three separate occasions were not spectacular enough to amount to anything, he said.

WING DRAWS TERM OF 1 TO 10 YEARS

Shiocton Man, Charged With Forgery, Is Sent to State Prison

Lyle Wing, 23, Shiocton, was sentenced to from one to ten years in state prison at Waupun by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Saturday morning on a charge of forgery. Wing was found guilty by a jury in the upper branch of municipal court several weeks ago.

He was arrested several months ago on charge of cashing a forged check for $50 drawn on the Calumet State bank. The check was cashed by Arnold Gradl at Hortonville. It was made payable to James Nelson and drawn by Ben Mills.

Wing is a twin brother of Earl Wing, who recently was sent to state prison on a charge of holding up a saloon at Bear Creek corners last winter. A younger brother also was implicated in this holdup, but was pardoned. The father of the three boys is being held for questioning in regard to disposition of the loot of the Auburndale State bank robbery last fall.

General Dawes' visit to Windsor marked the first time that King George has received a foreign diplomat since his illness began seven months ago.

Lossiemouth, Scotland —(P)—Premier Ramsay MacDonald, who is here awaiting the arrival of his distinguished guest, the new American ambassador, Charles G. Dawes, is hopeful that the general will be pleased with the peaceful setting of the lodge house in Findhorn valley. "I am sure General Dawes will be delighted with this charming highland home," he said. "My old friend Sir Alexander Grant, our host, is the soul of hospitality and has seen that everything will be done to make us comfortable."

The premier will attend the Free church at Lossiemouth at noon tomorrow and will then drive directly to the station to meet the American ambassador who is expected to arrive shortly after one o'clock. With his daughter, Ishbel, and his private secretary, H. E. Usher, the premier will take General Dawes to lunch with Sir Alexander, Lady Grant and their family. The premier and the new ambassador will begin to talk "quite informally."

"If I hope in time," the premier said, "I wish to have the pleasure of taking General Dawes to Aviemore which is the best point for seeing the glorious Cairngorm. We will go by way of Lochindorb where we will look at the ruins of Lochindorb castle which was the headquarters of the Wolf of Badenoch, the greatest bandit the highlands ever produced."

Cairngorm is a noted mountain of Scotland in the southwestern section of Banff, having an altitude of 4,084 feet. It is snow capped for the greater part of the year. Mr. MacDonald this morning said that he probably would have something to say about Anglo-American cooperation in a speech which he will make Tuesday night at a dinner given by the Lossiemouth town council. It will be at this time also that Ambassador Dawes will address the Pilgrims dinner in London, an address that is being eagerly awaited.

FEDERAL AGENTS FAIL TO "GUESS" SUSPECTS

La Crosse—(P)—The hearing of 31 alleged liquor law violators here today was turned into a sort of a guessing contest, and the federal agents barely batted .500 as guessers.

After counsel for Herman Troy, anek had asked that the agent who made the alleged "buy" pick his client out of the courtroom crowd and had the case dismissed when the agent failed, every other defendant tried the same tactics.

Four cases were dismissed in this manner, while five men were committed to the underground men and held for trial. They were held under $1,000 bond.

REAL RUSSIAN SABLES MAY RETURN TO SHOPS

Moscow—(P)—Real Russian sable, most highly prized among mid-lady's furs, may come back into the world markets if the soviet department of agriculture's plans work out. The government intends to open a sable farm in this province, equipped with the latest scientific nursing apparatus and in charge of experts in the breeding of animals and the care of the young.

Furthermore a closed season of three years is projected as protection of the few little fur bearers which have survived the efforts of pelt hunters. As matters stand the sable is almost extinct and a sure source of English pounds and American dollars is shrinking to almost nothing.

Hudson Plus Aerocar Too Fast For Cops

Here coupled to a Greater Hudson Coupe is the Aerocar, a trailer type coach which promises to revolutionize automobile passenger travel through its high degree of riding comfort. Its amazing tractability was demonstrated on a test run from Miami to New York City when Glenn H. Curtiss, its inventor, asked Washington police for an escort through the city but drove so fast that the escort could not catch up. With Mr. Curtiss, central figure in the picture are, left, "Barney" Everitt, president of the Aerocar Company of Detroit, and right, Richard Letts, general sales manager. Among its backers are outstanding men such as Roy D. Chapin, Howard E. Coffin, Walter O. Briggs and Arthur Brisbane.

MOHAIR PLUSH IN MARQUETTE AUTOS

Interiors of Models Are Luxurious and Extremely Durable

The interiors of the Marquette closed models present an appearance of luxuriousness seldom found in cars of that price range. The upholstery, in addition to being decidedly attractive, is most serviceable. It is a new type of mohair plush designed by the Fisher Body Corporation especially for use in automobiles. The material is extremely durable, the pile being fast set in rubber. The interior fittings of the new Marquette closed cars include upholstered arm rests, especially designed hardware, ash trays on the two sedan models, scuff plates at the doors, dome light, robe rail, nickel plated foot rest, rubber mat in the front compartment and high grade carpet in the rear. Pedal openings are completely enclosed. Rear curtains on the Two-door Sedan and rear and side curtains on the Four-door Sedan are standard equipment. Especially notable in the Marquette are the wide, comfortable seats. An adjustment on the driver's seat, easily operated moves the seat backward or forward over a three and a half inch range. This feature, combined with an adjustment on the steering wheel, makes both adjustable to all drivers. The rear seats are extremely comfortable, being 47-1/2 inches wide. The back of the driver's seat in the Two-door Sedan is upholstered all the way down. The rear window of the Four passenger Sport Coupe, Model 26-2, may be lowered to permit conversation between persons occupying the front and rear seats.

STUDEBAKER OFFERS NEW DICTATOR EIGHT

Company Assumes New Position in $1,200 Field, Dealer Announces

The introduction of a new Dictator Eight at a price which marks a new achievement in motor car value is announced by The Studebaker Corporation of America through Mr. H. Curtis of the Curtis Motor Sales, Studebaker-Erskine dealer here.

The new Dictator Eight continues Studebaker's program of making available the smoothness and flexibility of eight cylinder performance in the price range of six cylinder cars," said Mr. H. Curtis. "In presenting the new Dictator at prices ranging from $1185 to $1435, Studebaker assumes as outstanding a position in the $1200 field as it occupies

GRAHAM-PAIGE HAS 4-GEAR SPEED BOX

Operates With Simplicity of Three - speeder, Driver Finds

In the London Graphic
To most motorists in this country the average American car is considered somewhat uninteresting. From a driver's point of view it has little to recommend it beyond its acceleration and hill-climbing abilities in top gear.

This ability to do everything in top being its principal attribute, it has to be maintained at all costs; and with the three-speed gear box, which has hitherto been universal on all American cars, this has meant that the top gear has had to be kept on the low side. This, again, has meant that at ordinary high speeds of 50 m. p. h. and upward, the engine is revolving at a comparatively high rate, for which the average American car is not fitted.

Driving such a car myself, I have always thought it would be quite attractive and interesting if a higher top gear were fitted. Now the Graham-Paige has introduced a range of cars with just this feature.

This simple fact has completely transformed the car; it is as different from other American vehicles as you can possibly imagine.

In the first place, a very high road speed is obtainable in top gear without speeding the engine unduly; that is to say, without any fuss.

Driving such a car myself, I have always thought it would be quite attractive and interesting if a higher top gear were fitted. Now the Graham-Paige has introduced a range of cars with just this feature.

Thus, as an actual fact, only three gears are used, so that there is no more gear changing than on the usual three-speeder; but they are higher gears, that is all.

The fact is that too many four-speed gear boxes have all the complications of the four-speeder without any more advantages than the three, whereas the new Graham-Paige has the simplicity of the three-speed gear box with the performance obtainable from the four-speeder.

But, in addition, it has two exclusive features. In the first place, the

CHEVROLET BREAKS RECORDS IN MAY

Period Is Busiest Month in History of Company, Officials Report

Detroit — May was the biggest month in the history of the Chevrolet Motor Company. Production for the month totalled 161,214 cars and trucks, breaking all records.

Under pressure of the greatest demand in Chevrolet history, its 15 giant factories in May experienced the busiest period the company has ever enjoyed. Factory wheels turned with all the speed consistent with Chevrolet's precision manufacturing methods to accommodate the demand for cars that poured in from Maine to California and from Washington to Florida.

May was the third consecutive month to set a new all-time monthly production mark. It far surpassed the March record of 147,273 units and topped the April achievement of 157,522 units.

To accomplish this record performance Chevrolet plants averaged 7,000 cars and trucks daily, an average of 777 cars and trucks were built every hour; an average of 13 were built every minute—and one was built every 4.5 seconds!

From present indications the same relatively high level of production will be maintained. In June to keep pace with the demand, which officials report, continues unabated. Dealer stocks are still below normal due to the necessity of filling orders as fast as cars are received. Unfilled orders are over 300 per cent ahead of this same period last year. It was announced definitely that June production would break all records for the month.

The sixteen plants that contributed to the record May performance are located in the following cities: Detroit, Flint, Mich., Bay City, Mich., Saginaw, Mich., Toledo, Ohio, Atlanta, Ga., Buffalo, N. Y., Tarrytown, N. Y., Norwood, O., Kansas City, Mo., St. Louis, Mo., Janesville, Wis., and Oakland, Calif.

change from the high top to third is exceptionally easy; so much so that at moderate speeds you can flick the lever across without double declutching.

With this arrangement of gears the speeds obtained on hills are simply phenomenal. If a hill is steep enough to slow down the Graham-Paige, a quick change-down into third and the speed may be maintained up to actually 50 m. p. h. There is no normal European type of car on which this is possible except an expensive sports model specially produced to give such performance. And the Graham-Paige is not a sports car; it has the leather-bed comfort of the best type of touring model combined with this super performance.

Old and New Dodge Cars In Army Convoy

Various automotive units are now being tested by the U. S. Army Motor Transport School from Camp Holabird, Md. in the higher price brackets with its Commander Eight and the world champion President Eight. The popularity of the cars has given Studebaker the distinction of selling more eight cylinder cars than any other manufacturer in the world.

The introduction of the new Dictator Eight, as a companion car to the world champion President Eight and the Commander Eight, reflects Studebaker's full recognition of the trend of the fine car field toward the eight. In 1923 only 10 per cent of the makes of passenger car power plants were eights.

side curtains have large lights, and are designed to fit rods on the doors. When lowered the top folds down into an unusually compact package, enhancing considerably the general appearance of the car.

Low seats are typical of both open models. The interior of the roadster rear compartment is decidedly rimmed and contains a caddy seat. There is also a golf door on the roadster.

The exquisite color creations on the new Marquette have been designed to meet with universal appeal. Though scientific, they follow closely to present fashion trend. From the hundreds of various combinations considered, those selected are believed to be most acceptable to the motoring public. The color derivations were developed by Buick style engineers with the co-operation of the Fisher artists and the art and color section of the General Motors Corporation. On all of the Marquette models the colors have been applied to bring out the beauty of the lines and enhance their appearance.

When feet get tired a little rest will rejuvenate them. When tires get tired they are practically done. There is no rehabilitation.

Like feet, tires need a change—not necessarily having the weight removed, but from running in the same old position. They should be mixed around on the car to accomplish this purpose.

When tires are run in the same position continuously they naturally develop a wear peculiar to that position, whereas if changed around, this wear is broken up and distributed more uniformly over the entire surface of the tire. Generally the right rear wears the fastest; the left rear next, then the right front. The left front wears slowest.

Miller service men recommend that customers religiously change their tires front to rear and vice versa whenever the rear tires are worn more than the front ones, because the rear tires will naturally be worn out first if left in that position.

The used who wants uniform results should make the change after the rear tires are about one-half worn down. Changing tires in this way prevents intermittent failures from excessive wear on one wheel and gives the motorist longer service from all his tires, so they will all wear out at about the same time. According to Miller Tire Men at the Appleton Tire Shop—215 E. College Ave.

Friction is mainly responsible for overheating and a piston that is fitted too tightly may seize and in turn score the cylinder wall. This means an expensive repair job. Careful machining of engine parts, such as cylinder blocks, pistons, camshafts, crankshafts, etc., the proper fitting of bearings, accuracy in the cutting of gears; multitudinous checks during the process of assembling the Model A and rigid inspections combine to produce an automobile which is ready for the road when delivered. For this reason, it may at once be operated to the limit of speed prescribed by the motor codes of a great many states, without going through the customary "breaking in" period.

FREQUENT CHANGE OF TIRES ADVISED

Religious Adherence to This Practice Will Lengthen Life of Tire

When a person stands on one foot until it gets tired, he can rest it by standing on the other one. When both feet get tired, he can sit down. But the tires on an automobile can't do any of these things. They must hold up the car day in and day out, while it is standing, stopping, going

REPORT INCREASED DEMAND FOR NASH

Higher Percentage of Orders Is Astounding, Dealers Indicate

Kenosha — The approach of touring time—those four anxious months that send millions of American motorists into the open to reveal in new scenes and sensations—has brought with it a steady national increase in the demand for the Nash "400" cars that fit so perfectly into every motoring requirement, according to officials of The Nash Motors Company sales department.

Following an April which registered a gain of 92.68 percent in domestic shipments of "400" Series cars over the month a year ago, they received reports today from ten of the most important American motor sales centers showing that deliveries of new Nash cars in these points during the week ending May 18 were 43.01 percent above deliveries in the same period for the corresponding week in 1928. All indications point to another record breaking month for Nash, they declare.

"Consistent Nash gains are being reported from the great automobile marketing centers as the season advances," C. H. Bliss, sales manager, said today, following receipt of sales reports from these cities. "During the week ending May 18, New York reports an increase in Nash deliveries to 56 percent over the same week last year. In Metropolitan New York, during the first four months in 1929, official new car registration figures show the Nash "400" first among "400" cars rolled up a 42 percent gain, while the other leading Nash markets for the week—Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, and Los Angeles—brought the average gain to 43.01 percent.

"In Detroit—a territory called the world's most competitive automobile market—reports received for the week ending May 11 show an increase in Nash retail registrations of 92.3 percent over the corresponding week a year ago, and an 89.91 percent increase for the period from January 1 to May 11 over the same period last year. Nash registrations in Cook County as revealed by official state department figures show an increase of 53 percent for the first fifteen days in May."

NOTHING IS NEW
Philadelphia—Just to prove that nothing is new under the sun, the American Philosophical Society exhibits records to show that horned loads, brought into the limelight last year by the news that they were able to live for years in solid rock, are old stuff. According to the minutes of a meeting of the society under President Jefferson in 1803, a live frog was found in stone by Sam Peters at Hebron, Conn., in 1770.

Oakland was the first car to adopt the fuel pump, now used by thirty manufacturers.

FORDS ARE EASY CARS TO BREAK IN

Precision Manufacturing Allows Greater Speed With New Machines

Precision manufacturing and an unusual degree of importance which the Ford Motor company attaches to the inspection of Model A cars has gone far to eliminate that tedious process known as the "breaking in" of a new automobile.

On the windshields of the new Model A are directions which suggest a driving speed limit for the first 500 miles of 35 miles per hour. This is in marked contrast to the old line of instruction which cautioned against a speed of more than 20 or 25 miles an hour for at least 1000 miles.

Excess heat is the most destructive agency which may affect an automobile, particularly in the first several hundred miles it is driven.

MR. HOOVER HAS HIS WAY
President Hoover's rebuke of the senate following its second attempt to force the debenture feature into the farm relief bill proved to be singularly potent. It made it clear to the senate that such a measure would be vetoed should it reach the chief executive. Immediately following the president's pronouncement the house and senate conferees met and agreed again to eliminate the export debenture. Their report was approved by the house and transmitted to the senate, where it was passed by that body.
Thus is terminated the long effort to enact a bill that would afford sound means for relief to agriculture. Cool and intelligent judgment has prevailed over emotional and fantastic ideas. The country has escaped the equalization fee and the export debenture tax. It has been fortunate in this respect because two presidents have had the courage to stand out against artificial and political nostrums and insist upon reorganizing the agricultural industry according to proven economic principles and, to use the words of Mr. Hoover, "within the realm of business."

The bill which goes to the president for his signature marks the farthest step yet taken by this or any other government in state assistance to industry. It does it without subsidy or tax. The sum of $500,000,000 is appropriated with which to operate this great undertaking and it will be under the administration of men of ability in every way comparable to the heads of our large corporations.

President Hoover had every right to assume that the American people supported him in the position he took on this legislation. The law passed is along the exact lines of the plan he set forth in his campaign addresses for agricultural relief. He has had his way and he was entitled to have his way, not only because he submitted his program to the electorate and had it endorsed, but because his capacity to deal with the subject was altogether superior to that of congress. We now have legislation that is non-political in its origin and that should be non-political in its administration. It offers to agriculture the beginning of prosperous reconstruction on a permanent and solid foundation. It is a notable piece of legislation in every respect. It will take some years for its full effects to be realized, although they should be beneficial from the beginning and in the end it should mean a new era of American farm life. President Hoover is demonstrating the kind of leadership the American people like to see.

TUBERCULOSIS VICTORIES

Two achievements of great importance in the fight against tuberculosis were recently announced to the National Tuberculosis association. One, the work of the Rockefeller institute using chemicals discovered at Yale university, is expected to make it possible to detect the disease within three or four days instead of a month after infection. Early recognition of the disease is an important step in its cure. The importance of this discovery is therefore readily seen. The other achievement, announced from the university of Chicago, is a purification of tuberculin, intended to get rid of impurities that are claimed to have caused past uncertainties in this widely used test.

A thorough study of tuberculosis in all its phases is being made jointly by 17 universities or other large institutions. In their various laboratories scientists are taking tuberculosis germs apart to discover which section causes the disease and to discover the most effective antidote. There is increasing hope that they will be finally successful. In the meantime, though the tuberculosis death rate is high, the number of cures is increasing, and knowledge of prevention methods is being widely spread. Here is one serious human disease that seems in a fair way of being eliminated or controlled.

WAGES HERE AND THERE

Gino Olivetti, secretary of the Fascist confederation of Italian industry, speaking before the International Labor conference at Geneva as an employer delegate complained that the high wages of American workers were a menace to the rest of the world, explaining that the conditions prevailing here could not be brought into operation in Europe and that the American policy of high wages was possible only because it was carried out in a closed circle on an immense home market protected from the rest of the world. He failed to say that every nation has within its own boundaries "an immense home market" in which it may protect its own industries. The home market is nothing unless the home market people have money and the home market people cannot have money with which to buy unless they get good wages.

Twist the problem around as Olivetti will, paint it any color he chooses, its correct understanding all comes back to the relatively new principle in economics that that country prospers most in which the greatest number get at least a substantial if not the highest distribution of wealth, and of course the better the distribution of wealth the greater the prosperity of the country.

Mr. Olivetti is pursuing the old argument: "You may do that in America but it won't work in Europe." Quite likely it would be harder of operation in Europe because of differences in race and country, and set opinions that hang hard, but certainly if Europeans continue to assert that it won't work in Europe it never will. So long as wages are there kept down to a minimum the wage earners are limited in their purchasing ability to the minimum necessities of life and industry will continue to groan at minimum orders and minimum operation.

A NEW SPEED LAW

The legislature has passed a bill fixing a definite speed limit of 45 miles per hour in Wisconsin. Undoubtedly Gov. Kohler will sign it. It increases the speed limit five miles an hour over what it was supposed to be in the last enactment of this character. Owing to the ambiguous wording of the act, however, it has been held by good lawyers, including the attorney-general, that it was inoperative and that in reality there was no speed limit in the state.

We think the legislature does well to raise the limit from 40 to 45 miles. The latter is not a dangerous speed as automobiles are manufactured today and as roads are built to carry the traffic. An unreasonable restriction on speed tends to congest the highways and to increase the danger of accidents. It is important to keep traffic on the move.

In the meantime we think Wisconsin would do well to study the results of the no-speed limit law in Michigan. Most persons who have traveled in that state say that it works well. It is, of course, based on a system of state patrol. Michigan has what is equivalent to a mounted constabulary on motorcycles. These men patrol the roads constantly and reckless or other violations of safety measures are promptly and effectively punished.

It is not speed so much as chance-taking, disregard of the rights of others, intoxication, etc., that cause disaster. It is driving under such conditions that needs to be suppressed and severely dealt with. It seems to us that the Michigan practice is better than the Wisconsin but, as we say, it presupposes strict enforcement of laws and adequate patrolling of the highways.

Women prevented an aviator from allowing a monkey to drop out of his plane on a parachute in New York the other day. They'll still let a man make a monkey of himself, though.

Misspelled signs are a cause for arrest in Turkey. It's a good thing for owners of roadside stands that that law hasn't been adopted in this country.

An English magistrate has devised a new sobriety test. He requires suspected drunks to pick up two pins from the floor of a badly illuminated police station.

Charlie Curtis at least has found the answer to one question—he knows how a vice president can get a little publicity.

Duluth, Minn., home of many Americans of Scandinavian extraction, has a "Johnson club." It has 200 members bearing that name.

Huge presses, used in the manufacture of explosives during the war, now squeeze out 100,000 miles of mararoni weekly in Milwaukee.

The president's pocket veto has been held legal. That means there will be a lot of legislation for Mrs. Hoover to read, if she's like lots of wives.

The ban on hunting with a bow and arrow in Minnesota has been lifted by the legislature.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Summer seems to have brought an epidemic of petty sidewalk racketeering. One who gets about a bit during the day reports a noticeable growth in the "stolen-goods" racket. In one week he was stopped five times by "furtive" individuals who had something to sell at extremely low prices.

Three wanted to sell him suits of clothes which they intimated were stolen. One offered what apparently was expensive perfume. The fifth had a watch of mysterious origin.

Where the goods came from always is a mystery. The passerby is importuned to buy the bargain quickly and no information is vouchsafed beyond the suggestion of thievery.

Suits are the most common articles, four being offered for $20, or two for $10. Transactions take place in trucks and no trays are possible. You take them or leave them. It is all very sub rosa.

Yet the racketeers usually have a bill of sale for their wares when picked up by the police. If there is anything shady about their dealings, the suckers they turn never tell.

Whatever its present scope and methods, the "stolen-goods" racket was started more than 10 years ago by peddlers of raincoats that proved worthless at the first mousting. They operated near factories at lunch-time and soon sold out their stocks. If anyone called the cops, it could be proved that everything was regular and that the garments were worth not even the few dollars for which they were sold.

Although cigar store coupons stimulate the business of two postage stamp dealers in New York, their passing would not be lamented.

The certificates (which no longer are given out locally with cigars and cigarettes) are used by small boys as a medium of exchange for stamps. A dollar's worth of coupons buys an 80-cent collection of foreign stamps from either dealer.

The coupons in turn are sold at $1.20 per dollar's worth to other small boys who lack a few of having enough to get a coveted jack-knife, baseball bat or camera.

"It is," said one dealer, "almost more bother than it's worth. But out of the coupon-stamp exchanges we hope to make more stamp collectors."

FRANKLIN'S KITE
One hundred and seventy-seven years ago today, on June 15, 1752, Benjamin Franklin performed his famous kite experiment to prove that lightning and electricity are one and the same thing.

If the experiment had failed Franklin's excellent reputation among his contemporaries undoubtedly would have been ruined. He put off making the experiment for some time because he feared that it might fail and make him a laughing stock.

Finally, however, he flew his specially built kite over his home during a thunderstorm and the result added "electrical engineering" to his long list of accomplishments.

The kite was of cedar strips, covered with silk. To its top was attached a slender copper wire. A silk ribbon—a non-conductor—he attached to the end of the kite string and where the string and silk joined, a metal key.

First, the lightning made the loose ends of string bristle. Then, Franklin placed his finger on the key and felt a shock. As rain wetted the string the intensity was increased and Franklin captured enough electricity to fill his Leyden jar.

YOUR OWN NUTRITION

The conviction grew upon me long ago that popular education in physiology, sanitation and hygiene is a farce, and I developed a foolish inspiration that somebody ought to try and tell 'em. I know now that the inspiration was a foolish one. I've been trying for years and I find that in order to tell 'em anything you have to knock 'em on the head and when they're helpless take away from them a lot of things which ain't so, before you can begin educating them. And believe me, when folks have cherished fables, fads, and tall tales and fancies for years they're not so amiable about being enlightened.

For instance, it is a fond belief of many readers of claptrap magazines that it is a matter of considerable importance that one should get each of 16, or maybe it is 18 elements in one's diet—or in a nostrum one may arrange the diet just so—and one get every element in just such and such combination. Many a time have I attempted to reassure a victim of this humbug that one need lose no sleep over the seventeen elements in one's food as long as one has a fair appetite, a good taste for variety, and a reasonably liberal supply of foods to choose from. And many a time the victim has set me down as an ignorant fellow, like so many of my incredibly backward calling, and gone right on with his fascinating game of trying to get the right elements.

I have nothing more to lose, so I daresay now, what I believe no scientifically qualified person will challenge, that even in the case of iron there is never a shortage to be made good unless one's diet is restricted in some unnatural way, as in prolonged confinement to a milk diet, or prison rations, or a famine. In order to substantiate this assertion, in your mind—for it needs no corroboration in the mind of any one who has any knowledge of human physiology—I append here a list of foods and their relative iron content.

The puzzle is, try and select a mixed diet that doesn't contain enough iron for the body's requirements.

Food Iron
Egg yolk, wheat bran, entire wheat, dried beans, dried peas, spinach, dried prunes, almonds, lettuce, oatmeal, lean beef, potatoes (especially skins), onions, oysters, molasses, maple syrup, dandelion greens, rich in iron. Milk, skum milk, cheese, white flour, string beans, beets, cabbage (especially raw), carrots, turnips, apples, oranges, bananas, raisins, tomatoes, berries, chocolate contain less iron yet enough.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
TB or Tbc, Suit Yourself
I can't see the sense in your distinction about TB and Tbc. Everybody calls tuberculosis T. B. and faint if Tbc. is the correct abbreviation, is it your place to enlighten the world about it? I dare to speak because I myself believe I am developing tuberculosis. (L. D. O.)

Answer.—Probably you would never have written me had I not caught your interest in that way. Now I am glad to send you my monograph on the subject. It may help you to find out what to do, or it may show you how to enjoy peace of mind if you haven't. Anyway, it will convince you. I hope, that my little quarrel about the proper abbreviation for tuberculosis is not so inexcusable. I am glad to send this monograph or treatise on tuberculosis to anyone who asks for it and incloses stamped addressed envelope. It clarifies the frequent question: "How can I tell whether I am coming down with tuberculosis?" and also the question: "How does one contract tuberculosis?"

In Other Words
I have had stomach trouble for six years. . . . doctors call it nervous indigestion with the exception of one doctor, who says it is a condition of the nerves of my stomach due to gas. (Mrs. H. J.)

Answer.—Or maybe a nebulous state of mind due to the doctor's inference. If any doctor tells a patient the trouble is "nervous indigestion" or a condition of the nerves of the stomach due to gas, that goes to show that something ought to be done about this free and easy prating on the part of "Doctors."

No Such Place
Kindly tell me whether there is any place in the world or a near by city where — pads or other means of curing ruptures are sold. (H. C.)

Answer.—There is no such place, the doubtless you will find plenty of places where they sell things purporting to cure rupture. Rupture cannot be cured by any such means. Only surgery will cure rupture. This does not imply that every one with rupture must be operated on. I assume from your letter that you are a young man. If so, and you have rupture, the sensible and economic thing for you to do is have the surgical cure now.

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — A small group of newspaper folk sat in a studio projection room the other night and saw and heard the first all-talking picture directed by Josef Von Sternberg.

It is "Thunderbolt," bringing together again as director and star the two who made "Underworld" and "The Dragnet" memorable a year or so ago—Von Sternberg and George Bancroft.

After the show, those who saw it were pretty well agreed on one thing: that Von Sternberg in the talking medium has lost none of his effectiveness. The picture reeks with the Sternbergian "touches" famous in days of silence; homely things intruding immediately, as they do in life, on moments taut with dramatic suspense; pathos, and ironical humor, expressed pictorially.

WHO MADE WHO?
The picture may revive the question often put, since "Underworld" and "The Dragnet" — who made whom? That is, did Von Sternberg make Bancroft a star, or did Bancroft the star give Von Sternberg his reputation as director?

As far as the two principals in the discussion are concerned, the isn't any question. Each formally has taken his modest bow, and with a gesture awarded the laurel to the other. Bancroft says Von Sternberg is great no matter whom he directs. Von Sternberg reciprocates, vice versa.

Anyway, the Alphonse and Gaston act aside, "Thunderbolt" is a typical Bancroft role. Incidentally, Von Sternberg's taste of incidental music and songs in his first talkie won praise because in no way did the music and songs seem incidental, except when they were intended to be just that.

And not at all incidentally the cast includes Richard Arlen in a sympathetic role, and Fay Wray, who seems more of an actress than she has been since "The Wedding March."

TRY, TRY AGAIN!
Ever since primitive movie days when colored slides were flashed on the screen to illustrate the words of "popular songs," movie exhibitors have been trying to make audiences forget self-consciousness and sing in unison.

Organ "specialties," still with the printed words in view, have since been tried, without much success. Now the talkies make their own contribution to the "Singing America" movement: from an eastern studio comes an animated cartoon, "synchronized," and ending in a printed song; a white ball hops about over the words, pausing over each syllable to indicate tempo.

For the second refrain, characters in cartoon take the place of the "white ball," and go through hysterics-provoking antics. A clever trick,—but still, will an audience do no more than chuckle at the novelty?

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Bits of Washington gossip picked up at random:
No matter how much spicy gossip and conjecture Alice Roosevelt Longworth may stir up in Washington by her refusal to yield to rules of precedence, she long has followed the policy of "never giving interviews."

All of which recalls a story from an erstwhile reporter in the days when Roosevelt was President. He long had cherished the ambition to obtain an interview with "Princess Alice." One day he persuaded a friend of the Roosevelt family to present him as the son of a well-known United States senator. The better part of an afternoon was spent in extracting material for an excellent news story.

On the eve of the reporters' departure Alice innocently commented on his flair for newspaper work. His little farce broke down completely. Rather shamefacedly he confessed his identity. Alice was surprised and then amused.

Needless to say the story was never printed.

BUY A BOND?
There are two or three young women who "cover" the executive offices of the white house as faithfully as any Washington newspaper correspondent. They are representatives of bonding houses, waiting for the list of nominations that the president sends to the senate.

All postmasters, collectors of customs and internal revenue are required to post a bond as insurance that they will discharge their duties faithfully. The actual appointment depends on confirmation by the senate, but most of those named are certain to be confirmed. However, before his name is placed on the payroll the treasury department must have his prescribed bond on file.

The bonding companies want to know as quickly as possible the names and addresses of all persons nominated for postmaster or collector. The quickest way is to have some one on duty waiting for them at the white house.

SERGEANT SOUSA
The older residents of Washington, particularly, hail the appearance of John Philip Sousa on the air. They still remember him in the days when he was a marine sergeant who marched up Pennsylvania avenue leading the marine band.

It has been a long time since he turned the marine band baton over to Fancullin, who straightaway got himself court-martialed for refusing to play a Sousa march when ordered to do so by a marine lieutenant. This row prompted congress to make the leader of the band a commissioned officer.

Sousa was born in Washington, the son of a Portuguese father, who was himself a member of the marine band.

President Hoover's fondness for angling has caused a real estate boom in a hitherto comparatively unknown section near Washington.

A current magazine carries a half page advertisement of an estate directly adjoining President Hoover's summer playground. The owner hails his property as "an ideal playground for a man of means and a lover of nature."

Aside from that its present low price and other factors should greatly enhance its value within a few years.

DEBT MEETING WAITS; YOUNG SEES YOUNG WED

Cleveland, Ohio—(AP)—Such matters as international reparations conferences and official reports to President Hoover were put aside today as Owen D. Young, head of the American delegation, to the Paris negotiations, made a hurried trip to Cleveland to attend the wedding of his son, Charles, to Miss Marie Christensen.

Mr. Young's arrival this morning brought to an end a journey of nearly 4,000 miles abroad the Aquitania and by train, made hastily in order to attend the ceremony. Official receptions in New York were canceled and Mr. and Mrs. Young boarded a special tug at Quarantine last night to expedite his passage from the theatre of international negotiations to the quiet ceremony here today.

Charles Young is a graduate of Harvard university. Miss Christensen is active in the Junior league here. They will visit Honolulu on their wedding trip and live at Schenectady, N. Y., where Young is doing experimental work.

After the ceremony Mr. Young will visit his mother, who lives near Van Hornville, N. Y., where he was born, a farm boy, 54 years ago. Later he will go to Washington as chairman of the international committee of financial experts to lay before President Hoover a full report of the negotiations which settled the question of post-war debts.

One Exhibitor Enters 400 Varieties In Flower Show

Prizes of roots and bulbs worth considerably more than $100 have been offered exhibitors in the spring show of the Appleton Flower and Garden society in Armory G next Saturday and Sunday by the Edward J. Gardner nursery of De Pere, it was announced this morning. The nursery company is giving 40 prizes consisting of single and double peonies, iris, trailing new varieties of white and double flowered delphinium. The prizes are available only to non-professional growers and are in addition to the ribbons which will be given to exhibitors.

Indications are that the show will exceed if the fondest expectations of the promoters. Flower growers everywhere are showing an intense interest and it is probable that there will be thousands of flowers on display. No entry charge is made and there will be no charge to visit the show which is financed by the American legion in its campaign to beautify the city.

One of the interesting exhibits will be offered by the Uecke nursery of New London. This exhibit will trace the growth of evergreen trees from the seeds and seedlings to mature trees. Other nurseries and green houses will offer exhibits equally as interesting.

One professional grower has agreed to exhibit 400 varieties of flowers in the non-prize competition class and he also has volunteered to assign to each exhibitor the flowers to their proper classes when they are entered at the show.

All growers are invited to enter their flowers in the show and if they are not sure of the variety, experts will be on hand to make the proper assignment.

Only three blooms of the large varieties will be taken as one exhibit in the competition for most perfect flowers, but growers may enter as many exhibits as they desire. From six to a dozen blooms are to be entered in the smaller varieties. In the sweepstakes divisions as many flowers as desired may be entered. As was stated before, vases will be furnished by the flower and garden society.

Here is the special prize list for the bulbs and roots offered by the Gardner nursery:

Largest and finest display of peonies, first prize $10 worth of roots and bulbs, second prize $5, third prize $2.50.

Largest and finest display of iris, first prize $5, second prize $3, third prize $1.50.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE fire drew closer to the shore and all the bunch heard Scouty roar, "Come on, we must get busy. There is little time to waste. There's just one thing that must be done. We'll all throw water. It's no fun, but now it seems we have no choice. That's why I say, make haste."

"What are we going to throw it in?" asked Clowny, with a frightened grin. "Our hands are much too small to stop a blaze of any sort. We haven't time to look around to see if something can be found. I fear 'twill be a heap of work, and not one bit of sport."

Then Scouty snapped, "Say, this is work that must be done. Now, please don't shrink. Pull off your hat and dip it in the stream that's right near by. If all of us work hard that way, and at the tireless labor stay, perhaps we'll head the big fire off. At least we all can try."

So, off their hats came, very quickly. Soon Carpy shouted, "This is slick. My hat holds little water, but I'll do the best I can." They look so funny, 'twas a scream to see them dipping from the stream. Each second, from the water's edge, up to the fire they ran.

The scarecrow, in the meantime, stayed out in the stream. He was afraid that if the flames came close to him they'd burn him up real quick. He shouted, "I would lend a hand, but surely you all understand that when it comes to fighting fire I'm really not so slick."

"Oh, that's all right," one Tiny snapped. "I think we have the wild flames trapped. We've soaked the ground in front of us in quite a thorough way. I hardly think there's much to fear, 'cause when the flame creeps up to here, they'll sizzle for a little while and finally die away."

(The Tynmites fix the scarecrow up in the next story.)

General Weather
Generally fair weather has prevailed over the entire country during the past 24 hours, except for scattered showers in the central valleys, the lower lakes and along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. High pressure over the south Atlantic coast has brought cooler weather to the southern states and to most of the section east of the Appalachian mountains, but a deep "low" over the Rocky Mountain states has caused temperatures to rise in the upper lakes and the western plains states. Partly cloudy and cooler is expected in this section tonight and Sunday, with possibly local thunderstorms Sunday.

CHURCH WILL HOLD SERVICE IN-PARK

No services will be held in Zion Lutheran church Sunday, but a divine service in both English and German will be held at Pierce park at 9:30 Sunday morning. The rest of the day will be devoted to the annual picnic for school and Sunday school children. The military band will play, and dinner and supper will be served at the park by the ladies of the church. Children will congregate at Zion church at 8 o'clock Sunday morning.

WITH the announcement of Rhoda's engagement to Ben Grayson, Crystal Hathaway's position as guest in the Jonson home became faintly embarrassing. If Tony had still been there to talk things over with, Crystal would have found the situation amusing, but as it was she felt somewhat in the way and kept to herself as much as possible. For Cherry was in her most difficult mood—fortunately, a rare one. She felt aggrieved, about as if Rhoda had deliberately failed in love and got herself engaged to be married, just to spoil her sister-in-law's ecstatic plans for a glorious week in New York.

To make up for Cherry's sulking and resentment, Nils became almost touchingly devoted to Rhoda, encouraging her to invite Ben Grayson to the Jonson house for any or every meal, until Cherry complained bitterly that the young farmer must be triplets, at least. No one human being could be so omnipresent. But Crystal, for one, never got tired of watching the engaged couple together. Ben, big, dark and clumsy—he was only twenty-three and still uncertain as to what to do with his hands and feet—followed Rhoda about like a tame, adoring bear, his shy eyes almost never leaving her plump, fair face, crowned with its honey-colored braids.

And Crystal, seeing how beautifully Rhoda had found and accepted her destiny—uncomplicated Rhoda, Rhoda who had known complexes and inhibitions—felt a sudden desire to marry. Rhoda's destiny—to marry, make a calm, wise, loving wife—a calm, wise, uncomplicated child—seemed to Crystal to be the highest that could wait any woman. And she was sad for herself and for Tony and even for Cherry.

Perhaps if she had not had Rhoda's and Ben's happiness forever before her those last days of her visit to the Jonson farm, Crystal would not have permitted George Pruitt to put into words the hope that she had sensed growing up in his heart as he painted the picture of the future of his artist. It had been agreed between George and his father, stern, commercial-minded old Lincoln Pruitt, president of the Pruitt Hardware Company, that if this picture showed a trace of genius or even of unmistakable talent, George who hated his father's business because he was unfitted for it, was to be free to cultivate that talent.

The picture was finished on Saturday afternoon. To Crystal it seemed so amazingly good that a great humility descended upon her. That she should have been the model the inspiration for so delicate and beautiful a thing was almost unbelievable. And that the artist who painted it had done his work so well because he loved her, saw beauties and truths in her soul which no one else had suspected, filled her with a quivering pride. Was it not possible that George and Crystal belonged together as beautifully and inevitably as did Rhoda Jonson and Ben Grayson?

107 GIRLS REGISTER FOR ONAWAY CAMP

Only 107 girls had registered for the three week Onaway camp period up to Saturday, according to Agnes Vanneman Shipman, director of the camp. An average of 75 girls a week can be accommodated at the camp, and unless more girls enroll over the weekend it is possible that the camp period will be cut down to its usual period of two weeks.

Camp Onaway is a non-sectarian camp for girls, and is sponsored each summer by the Appleton Girl Scout committee. Regular classes are held in swimming, boating, handwork, nature study, archery, folk dancing, and other typical summer camp work.

Society At Capital Much Attracted By Many June Wedding Fetes

BY SALLIE V. H. PICKETT
Washington—(AP)—The capital is fairly abuzz with June weddings. Some of them are given nation-wide interest by the attendance of some special guest, like little Paulina Longworth, who graced the wedding of Miss Ann Graham Home and Mr. Willard Hayes Tuesday afternoon because some of her friends figured in the wedding party as flower girls. Not only did Paulina attend the wedding reception but her gift to the bride, a silver vegetable dish bearing her card, was displayed among the other gifts. Neither Speaker nor Mrs. Longworth could be present, but Paulina did not need them.

Invitations to the wedding of Senator Don Victor Plummer Alfaro, son of the minister of Panama and senator of Alfaro, to Miss Nancy Kerr Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hamilton of Washington, the former a local attorney, are creating as much interest as any wedding to take place here in a long time. There is seldom a wedding in the diplomatic corps.

The invitations are engraved according to the Spanish form—double invitations on a double sheet of heavy vellum, the invitation on the left page being from Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton and the one on the right side from the Minister and senator de Alfaro, with another difference in that the name of the bridegroom is above that of his fiancée.

Below the invitations is the announcement that the ceremony will take place at 4:30, June 24, in St. Matthews church on Rhode Island-ave and an invitation to the wedding reception in the Pan-American Union building at 5 o'clock is inclosed.

The latter feature of the wedding will be really beautiful. The Astor garden will be used, as it was at the wedding reception of Miss Alisa Mellon, daughter of the secretary of the treasury to David Bruce, son of the then Maryland senator, William Cabell Bruce. Gay marquee dotted the walks about the reflecting pool for the Mellon-Bruce wedding breakfast and the wedding guests were served there. A similar arrangement will be made for the Alfaro-Hamilton wedding with the added charm of long shadows thrown over the garden at that hour by the tall poplar and other trees that screen it from the public.

The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Mitchell, a cousin of the bride, comes from Cincinnati, Ohio. Miss Elma Binn and Miss Jessica Holton from Pennsylvania and there are girls from Washington in the party.

These warm days lend a democratic atmosphere to Washington life and even Mrs. Hoover is not immune. She held her first garden party at the White House this week, receiving members of the Republican Women's league in Washington. Gay tents dotted the lawn and from them refreshments were served to the several hundred guests, while the Marine band with the musicians in their full dress uniforms, with scarlet, gold braided coats, gave a program. The fountain at the foot of the lawn was set playing and with the flowers abloom in the garden through which the guests passed to be received, the scene was one of great beauty.

President and Mrs. Hoover had among their guests during the week Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fisher of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sloan of New York, who attended the dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Hoover during their visit. Other guests at the dinner included Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury; Speaker of the House and Mrs. Longworth, Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont, Senator Reed Smoot, Senator and Mrs. George H. Moses, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. William Hardly and Mrs. Jean Henry Large, sister of Mrs. Hoover, who is at the White House.

British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard have issued cards for a dinner at the embassy the night of June 30, in honor of the vice president, Mr. Curtis and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gann. A number of distinguished guests have been asked to meet them.

Washington society is a little appalled lest the prospective visit of Ramsay MacDonald, the English prime minister, fall in late July or August, a time when the capital is almost bereft of distinguished citizens. However, the president and

FORMER SEYMOUR GIRL GETS CLUB LEADER JOB

Miss Olive Van Vuren, formerly of Seymour, is to start her duties next week as part-time club leader in Portage-co. She will take over her duties following completion of the school year at the state university at Madison, which she has been attending. Miss Van Vuren is well known in Outagamie-co and vicinity for her activities in 4-H club work. The first part of her work in Portage-co will consist of a series of meetings where leaders will attend to hear her discuss a program of club work.

SHE'S HARD WORKER

Nebraska City, Neb.—Otoe county has a school teacher that it might well be proud of. She is Ruth McCormick, who has driven more than 5,000 miles to teach her class of 11 boys. During the school year she has made a round trip of 30 miles from her home to the school every day. She did not miss a day during the entire year nor was she tardy once.

D. A. R. TAKES OVER EXPANSION PROGRAM UNDER MRS. HOBART

New President of Organization Attacks Her Job With Vigor

BY MARGUERITE YOUNG Washington (AP)—No captain of industry could go about his job in a more serious fashion than Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, new president of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She is attacking her duties as vigorously as though it were her first big organization week, and she has evolved a new national organization plan calling for 150 D. A. R.'s in all sections of the country to help her carry it out.

Expansion of the activities of the daughters to arouse interest among more of its members is planned by Mrs. Hobart. She contemplates six "miniature" congresses on the order of the big annual congress which is held in Washington every spring. The smaller congresses will be held in various parts of the country and will be similar to the annual gathering except for the transaction of business, which alone can be done at the national gathering.

Mrs. Hobart has divided the 150,000 D. A. R.'s throughout the land into six regions. According to her plan each region next year will hold a miniature continental congress.

"There will be a vice chairman of each standing committee in each of the six regions," she says. "These 25 women will be present at their regional congresses to explain and to stimulate interest in their phases of the national program."

The plan will give the new president general more time for administrative duties, as it will go away with the necessity of her traveling to each state meeting. She will continue to attend them this year, however.

One of the administrative matters occupying Mrs. Hobart's attention now is the handling of funds for the new memorial building of the society. It is costing $1,500,000. The organization did not find it necessary to borrow anything to finance it.

The new leader, whose home is in Cincinnati, has established a residence here at the Colonial Dames club. She works eight hours a day in the national headquarters.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET JUNE 21 IN EAU CLAIRE

Eau Claire (AP)—Methods which churches can adopt to hold their boys and girls and serve them will be paramount in the addresses and discussions at the Upper Wisconsin Young People's convention here June 21, 22 and 23. More than 600 delegates are expected from Wisconsin churches principally from the western half of the state. Speakers prominent in young people's work are scheduled on the program.

They include: Carlton M. Sherwood, Boston, extension secretary, and Charles F. Evans, Chicago, western manager of the International Society of Christian Endeavor; Ernest J. Pace, Florida, cartoonist, lecturer and Bible teacher; Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, Waukesha; Miss Mildred Hagard, Minneapolis, junior expert of the International Society of Christian Endeavor, and the Rev. D. HOUSE-GARAGE FIRE INSURANCE RATES LESS

Word was received here this week from the Rating Authorities of the Wisconsin Inspection Bureau at Milwaukee that garages again may be built into houses without any additional cost for insurance. Formerly it cost two dollars per thousand more to insure a house with a garage attached. Officials realized that the average home builder failed to take out as much insurance, but the reduction of the cost again has encouraged the homebuilder, it is reported.

A reduction of 50 cents per thousand on tornado insurance also was announced.

Dangers Of Explosive Fluids Are Pointed Out

Listing some of the accidents which occurred in the state during the past year as the result of improper use of naphtha, gasoline and benzine, the Wisconsin Industrial commission, in a bulletin issued this week, urges greater caution in the use of these deadly fluids.

The commission points out that modern dry cleaners no longer use gasoline or naphtha in cleaning operations because they are so dangerous to both life and property and it urges that private citizens should follow this example.

Quoting some of the accidents which have resulted from the use of these materials the commission says that Mrs. Ramona MacGregor, of Appleton, placed a dish of naphtha in a bath tub and was over-coming by the fumes while cleaning clothes. The example of Mrs. N. Metoxen, Menasha, who was badly burned while using benzine stove polish on a hot stove, also is pointed out as one of the dangerous results of using these liquids.

Other examples follow: A brother of six years old Patrick Vogt of Cassville cleaned a paint brush with gasoline near a fire. The brush burst into flames. He threw it outdoors and hit his younger brother, igniting his clothes. Patrick died a living torch.

An employee of the Direct Service Oil Company of Milwaukee cleaned a floor with a mop dipped in gasoline. The fumes ignited.

Gustav Vollman of Milwaukee upset a candle in a garage and was burned by the gasoline fumes fire.

A Richland Center man threw a match in an empty gasoline can. Gust Krohl, Red Granite, was blinded by exploding gasoline which he was heating.

At Wisconsin Rapids the gasoline in a popcorn wagon exploded, splashing the owner with burning gasoline. He jumped into the Wisconsin River to extinguish the fire.

FLORAL COMPANY IS SOLD FRIDAY BY GUY BLONDEY

Business Is Purchased by Theodore Knapstein and Frank Jennings

New London.—The New London Floral company, owned by Guy M. Blondey and located on the Hortonville road, was sold Friday to Theodore Knapstein and Frank Jennings. The sale Mr. Blondey releases claim on the greenhouses and about five acres of land. Mr. Blondey retains his farm, residence, and land located north of the greenhouses. Mr. Blondey expects to give his entire attention to his farm. He will raise pure blood cattle and grow evergreens.

Extensive plans are already laid by the new partners for landscaping much of their acreage. Sunken pools, winding paths and fountains, and planting of shrubbery and flowers will transform the ground heretofore used for field planting into a garden. Considerable of the grounds will be retained for nursery stock and material used in the greenhouses.

Although Mr. Knapstein will manage the growing and selling of flowers for commercial use, Mr. Jennings will give much of his time to this work too. He has shown an interest in this line of work, his home grounds having been devoted largely to the growing of plants and shrubbery. Mr. Knapstein will retain his greenhouse on E. Cook-st, but with available grounds for growing flowers, he will turn his entire grounds into public gardens.

Work on a new formal garden has just been completed and a stone bridge and a new pool have been added. Mr. Knapstein plans to have a rustic pergola lighted with Oriental lights, while colored lights are to be placed on a nearby building, where their light falls indirectly upon the gardens.

The change in ownership takes effect on Sunday. The working staff of the management will be enlarged. One man will be kept at the E. Cook-st. establishment. The downtown flower shop was not included in the deal. Plants and flowers will be displayed by the new firm in the Jennings market on the north side.

Funeral services for George C. Murray of Galloway were held from the Methodist Episcopal church in Manawa, Wednesday afternoon. The Rev. A. L. Tucker of Waterloo, a former pastor here, officiated. Interment was in the Ogdensburg cemetery. The Manawa lodge of Masons was in charge of the services at the grave.

Mr. Murray died at his home in Galloway, Sunday, June 9. He was born March 22, 1884, in the town of St. Lawrence, as a boy he attended the Block schoolhouse not far from his home, and after completing his grade education he worked in the woods and on the river a few years. Later he attended Valparaiso university at Valparaiso, Ind.

Returning to Waupaca, Mr. Murray was married at Ogdensburg to Miss Kittle Sarah Livermore on Sept. 23, 1885. They lived on the farm in St. Lawrence for eight years.

In 1893 they moved to Ogdensburg where Mr. Murray conducted a livery business until 1903, when the family came to Manawa. Here Mr. Murray owned a livery and bus business. The family lived in this village until 1911 and then traveled west to South Dakota where they proved up on half a section of government land. They returned to Manawa in 1917 and purchased a farm two miles west of here where they resided for two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray left this locality again in 1919 and located at Galloway where the former was superintendent of logging operations and the land department for the Moore and Galloway Lumber company until his death.

He is survived by five children. Reid of Ogdensburg, Mrs. A. Pfeiffer of Milwaukee, Mrs. A. W. Wheeler of Toledo, Ohio, Donald of St. Lawrence, and Hugo of Friendship, one brother, John Murray of Ogdensburg, and seven grandchildren.

Dr. F. S. Lindow, local dentist, who sold his practice to Dr. W. E. Guinn in 1927, has gone to Marion to open a dental office in that village. Dr. Lindow practiced dentistry in Marion for thirteen years, from 1904 to 1917, before moving to Manawa.

RADIO COMMISSION TAKES COGNIZANCE OF REBROADCASTING

Use of Such Facilities Are Prohibited by Federal Body

Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press

Washington.—First practical cognizance of rebroadcasting and international exchange of radio programs is taken by the federal radio commission in the issuance of a sweeping regulation, clamping the lid on extensive use of radio for rebroadcasting facilities. The order also is seen as a gesture toward insuring proper selection of programs from other nations with a view of eliminating material bordering on the propaganda stage or adverse to American principles.

Coming on the eve of international program exchange, whereby the American listener will hear a foreign station on his loud speaker with full signal strength and a fair degree of fidelity of reproduction, the general order forbids orderly regulation of the latest offshoot of broadcasting. As a matter of fact the Columbia Broadcasting system already has introduced the first of a series of commercial programs emanating from stations of the National Broadcasting system as well as the C. B. S. have been in negotiation with the broadcasting systems of France, Germany and England, to arrange the program exchange. M. H. Aylesworth, president of N. B. C., only recently returned from abroad and reported notable progress with the European governments, which control broadcasting.

Aside from the pure program aspects, the commission seeks to regulate broadcasting, both within the continental limits of the United States and from foreign countries to conserve the limited facilities. It does not want to see the precious frequencies wasted. For example, in the United States it will not countenance the hooking up of many radio stations by short range relays when telephone wires can be used just as well or even better.

The broadcasting chains have been put to great expense to link together their stations, and it would be unfair competition to permit newcomers in the field to use the "free air" indiscriminately.

CANT SEAL PROGRAMS
There is yet another element involved in the order. There are instances where stations, without any authority whatever are picking up programs of a first class station on a selective receiver, and rebroadcasting them over their own station by injecting a charge of power and building up the signals. This is an offense in violation of the radio law. Specifically, the order provides that no station shall be licensed for relay broadcasting without first obtaining written consent of the commission. A second provision is that stations engaged in relay broadcasting shall report quarterly to the commission the nature and extent of such operations.

These results shall include "the stations located abroad which are regularly receiving and rebroadcasting the program originated by the licensee, the times during which reception abroad is of sufficient intensity and quality to render rebroadcasting practicable, the frequencies utilized abroad for reception of said programs, and the nature and extent of such operations."

The commission, of course, has no authority to censor programs of any kind. It is seeking, however, through the general order, to keep abreast of the program material invading this country from abroad.

IMMIGRANTS CAN READ
Immigrants have learned to read, and unquestionably the newspaper advertising emphasized on sanitation, cleanliness and the arts and crafts of civilized living has been a tremendous stimulus to higher personal standards.

As a bit of substantiating evidence, this observer recalls the case of a Polish family saved by piano lamp. Twelve years ago, this family, with a name like a chunk of slag, was a wreck in a decaying tenement in Hester street. There were seven children. The father could find no work. The mother was helpless.

The father finally got work as a sand-hog. It was a punishing job but the pay was $12 a day—$100 a month. With his first check, this Polish sand hog bought a huge piano lamp. It was almost as big as a puppet and trimmed with beads, ribbon bangles and everything else which could be crowded in.

The neighbors came in to marvel and the tired and hopeless mother acquired a new social distinction. She appointed the oldest of the children as head server, and they started in cleaning up the place.

The pay-check piled up and pretty soon there was a highly chromatic rug to go with the piano lamp. The children were learning to read and they began to tip the parents to all sorts of little trucks for keeping things ship-shape. A shiny golden oak dining room set came along shortly after the renovation of the spread over the house. The father crawled up out of the caissons and now has work above ground. The children are all at school except two who have finished and found work. The piano lamp did the business where the social workers had failed. Incidentally, years afterward a piano came along to go with the lamp and the youngest of the little princes is learning to play.

MAJOR LEASE LAND
Mayor Walker has strongly indicated that John D. Rockefeller Jr. and several other philanthropists will form a limited dividend corporation for the erection of the model tenements in a large area in the most congested district of the East Side. The land would be leased by the city to the corporation for ninety nine years, a method which is being increasingly followed in many lines of semi-public development here, such as the churches which transform their buildings into apartment hotels, through an engineering corporation. In this case, the corporation would be limited to a return of five per cent on its investment, with a maximum rental of $10 a room for the apartment.

Owners of property in the neighborhood have agreed to accept not more than 25 per cent above the assessed valuation.

Mr. Rockefeller, the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, August Heckscher, and other individuals and corporations already have made a long forward drive toward model housing. There are progressive state and municipal housing commissions and an indication that there will be no lack of funds for a sweeping reclamation which will completely eliminate what were once among the worst slums in the world. ### England's Queen Misses Thrills Of Shopping

London.—Even a queen must have new clothes.

But her majesty, Queen Mary, much as she might perhaps like to go window-shopping and gaww hunt with the rest of the feminine world, must wait patiently in her palace for a dressmaker to come with patterns, tape measure and sketches of the newest modes.

The queen placed an order for a group of new evening gowns to be fitted before the royal court moved from Windsor to Sandringham, the country palace of England's royalty. The simple life that the sovereign and his family lead at Sandringham precludes the queen's wearing any of her frocks, so it is supposed she is preparing for the season in London during the courts in late June at Buckingham palace.

One of the new gowns is of pale gold satin, draped with soft, graceful folds, and another is of mauve and silver brocade.

Although resident queens never go personally to the shops of London, many visiting royal ladies go to showrooms as quite ordinary persons, look at the mannikins and make their decisions on the spot.

The democratic informality that has invaded most royal families since the war has resulted in many royal trips to fashion's haunts. Most of the smartest London dressmakers are thoroughly versed in queenly tastes and when they know of an impending visit have the whole show in readiness.

Queen Marie of Rumania is one of the most frequent of the foreign visitors, and her taste and choice in clothes is universally admired by all dressmakers who have tended her wants.

Education and Restricted Immigration Has Helped, Workers Report

New York.—Behind today's announcement that New York is going ahead with its $106,000,000 housing project, on the lower east side, there is a story of social rehabilitation which indicates that slums, in their worst aspects, are rapidly eliminating themselves regardless of municipal aid.

Nothing that this latest project has not yet incurred the old dependence comeback. "They'll put coal in the bathtub," this correspondent, sought among social workers and others, the reason for such an oversight.

"The coal in the bathtub age has passed," was the answer. "Ten years of steady employment and high wages, with a checking of immigration, giving big cities a chance to get caught up on their housekeeping, have had an educational effect which has been rapidly important in the re-education of crowded districts than either city planning or social service work. Economic forces have been working with us, rather than against us."

"The millenium is a long way off and there is still plenty of dirt and confusion in the crowded districts, but on the whole the 'under-privileged' peoples as we used to call them are re-educating themselves, and keeping pace with their new opportunities. It is true that many model housing projects have failed in the past because of the low standards of behavior in their neighborhoods, but more recently developments have shown that the submerged man, 'on the make,' is quite a different person from his predecessor of a few years ago."

Immigrants have learned to read, and unquestionably the newspaper advertising emphasized on sanitation, cleanliness and the arts and crafts of civilized living has been a tremendous stimulus to higher personal standards.

ADD U. W. TWIRLER TO KAUKAUNA NINE FOR SUNDAY'S GAME

Ted Thelander Will do Twirling for Fracas Against Marinette

Kaukauna—In an attempt to keep the prestige of Kaukauna high in the Fox River Valley baseball league, Les Smith has been shifting players in his lineup. Fans will see a new pitcher Sunday when the locals play Marinette at the Kaukauna ball park. His name is Thelander, a crack twirler from the University of Wisconsin varsity squad.

He is noted for his speed and curve ball. Teamed with "Shorty" Wenzel behind the home plate, the pair will bode no good for the Marinette nine. Thelander is a right hander and has just finished a successful season with the state university.

A second addition to the team is Ray Smith. He plays first base like a veteran and handles the stick with plenty of pinch. The two new players are expected to pep up the team.

Marinette has dropped all its games. It is expected that a number of new players will appear in the Marinette line-up. Marinette is a newcomer in the Valley league this year. Those expected to take part in Sunday's activities with the Smithmen are Vils, L. Smith, R. Smith, Ehlers, Muir, Gertz, Phillips, Thelander and Wenzel.

BUSINESS BETTER TODAY THAN YEAR AGO, ROYLE FINDS

Industrial Plants Have Not Slackened Pace of Past Few Months

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press

New York—Pace of the industrial plants has not slackened. But there has been a noticeable falling off in unfilled orders in some industrial lines. This latter development would not be of moment were it not for the fact that the American people become accustomed to prosperity more quickly than any other. One day of active prosperity makes them forget 364 days of depression.

Check to the filling of orders and to demand is normal at this season. It is to be expected and has been expected and discounted in previous months. It would be normal and perhaps salutary but because of the unexampled prosperity of the past five and a half months, it is regarded this year as an anomaly. It is natural because as the fiscal year draws to a close, many concerns take accounting of their positions. They have been reducing inventories and preparing for accountings.

TIGHT PERIOD NEARING

The period when money is likely to be tight is approaching. Preparations are being made for financing crop movements. The cash required for dividend and interest payments is at hand. All these factors enter into the situation but are disregarded by some. The fact remains, however, that the basic industries are going forward at a remarkable pace. There is no check to steel production. Automobile manufacture is moving ahead splendidly. The flow of electrical current and of gas for industrial uses proves plainly the activity of the industrial field in general.

The danger signal in the steel field is usually a softening of prices. No such development has made its appearance. The call for machinery and tools is heavy. Railroad freight loadings are heavy and foreign trade has received a distinct stimulus.

The slackening in the demand for building materials reflects some hesitation in the construction field. Lumber production is high and new business is dropping somewhat. But it may be that building programs are awaiting easier money conditions. The flood danger is virtually over in the Mississippi valley, although a recurrence is anticipated in July. Buying power is showing few signs of a let-up.

The main danger lies in the agricultural situation. It is in reality too early for the farmer to know how badly he is hurt. But there is no doubt he has been bumped by the situation in wheat. It is also too early to know how much congressional action will help him this year. The farmer is like a man at

RARE PAINTING OF 14TH CENTURY IS REPORTED MISSING

Los Angeles—(AP)—A rare fourteenth century painting, one of a collection displayed in the Armstrong museum when a recent fire damaged several structures on the University of Southern California campus, is reported missing by Dr. J. T. Taborsten Armstrong.

"I would not attempt to set a price on the picture," said Dr. Armstrong. "It is one of the very early paintings made in Constantinople. The painting depicts Christ washing the feet of the disciples."

The picture was one of several saved from the fire. When the art pieces were reevaluated it could not be found.

JUST LIKE HOME

Berlin—An example of garbage news is a story that appeared in the Prager Tagblatt recently. The story said that special jails for bootleggers, nine stories high, were being built in New York. Room and board at these "hotels" were paid for by the "leggers" who could select any room. The rooms were to be provided with every convenience, including a bath.

ter being struck by an automobile. He may lie groaning until a physician comes, only to discover his bruises are superficial, or he may get up and walk off and drop suddenly with concussion of the brain.

In any estimate of the farm situation, it must not be forgotten that the farmer represents about 25 per cent of the buying power of the nation.

DETAIL BATTLE KEEN

In the retail field the battle for supremacy is intense. Scores of lines are "viewing with alarm" the incursions of rivals. The tobacco interests took steps this week to enter the food distribution game. The groceries are selling tobacco. The chains are meeting refusals to sell to them at low prices by threats to provide their own sources of supply. But the various merchants forget that there has never been a mode of warfare developed in either the commercial or military field which did not lead to development of an adequate defense.

Retail trade, which is the real barometer of the business condition of the country, is still most active and shows little sign of recession. The outlook, however, may not be quite as bright as it was a month ago. This was to be expected in view of the season of the year. When all the factors listed above are taken into consideration, it still is thoroughly evident that conditions today are far better than they were a year ago—and 1928 was one of the best years America ever had.

Of Interest To Farmers

SUGGEST POISONED PEST TREATMENT

New Bait Will Kill Field Mice, Pocket Gophers, and Ground Squirrels

Outagamie-co fruit growers and farmers are being advised by J. H. Sell, county agricultural agent, of a new poisoned bait for the control of field mice, pocket gophers and ground squirrels. The new type of bait is prepared by the bureau of biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture.

It consists of whole oats, steamed, slightly crushed, and poisoned with strychnine. The process allows the inner meat of the grain to become coated with the poison without the necessity of removing the hull.

This process is particularly effective because of the habit of this type of pest to hull the grain before they eat it, according to the word received by Mr. Sell from the biological survey department.

The poisoned bait is being prepared in large quantities and can be shipped to any point. Mr. Sell has suggested that a group of county fruit growers and farmers pool an order as no shipments of less than 300 pounds each are made. Farmers interested have been asked to get in touch with the county agent.

CONTINUE FIGHT FOR FISHING LICENSE BILL

Madison—(AP)—The Senate next Thursday will witness the unusual situation of an administration floor leader endeavoring to pass a bill over the veto of a governor.

Senator George W. Blanchard, conservative whip of the upper house, will endeavor to obtain enough votes for a two-thirds majority in favor of his dollar fishing license fee bill, which Governor Kohler has vetoed.

His chances for obtaining the required 22 votes are considered slight, in view of the fact that the Progressive-Socialist minority, as well as several Conservatives, opposed the measure when it was originally before the Senate.

Nor are members of the administration forces believed likely to vote against the expressed wishes of their party or factional chief, the governor.

BALDNESS TO ORDER

European scientists are interested in the new drug, thallium acetate, which enables one to become bald for a week. Three weeks after taking a dose the subject is as hairless as at birth. A week later the hair begins to grow again. During the week doctors may treat various scalp complaints.

MAP SOILS OF ALL SHEBOYGAN FARMS

Government's Survey Report Is Ready for Distribution

Every farm owner in Sheboygan county can now learn the names and location of the different soils which his farm contains by means of the report and map of the soil survey of this county, just published by the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Progressive farmers who, in most cases, know their soils and what their soils can produce, will particularly enjoy comparing their judgment of the different soils on their farms with that of the soil experts of the state and the Department of Agriculture at Washington. These specialists tell, in the report of the survey, the soil layers, the drainage, the color and the productivity of each soil type in the county.

This small book of 45 pages is written to assist local farmers in fitting their crops to their soils in the most profitable way. It contains a large map of many colors, each color marking the location of a different soil. So exact is this map that each farmer, by studying it and the description of soil types, can locate and identify the different types of soil on his farm.

Sheboygan County has 37 different types of mineral soil in addition to muck and peat. The report tells the texture and depth of every type, how far down the subsoil of each kind of soil may usually be found, and whether it is favorable to root growth and the downward drainage and upward movement of soil moisture, or whether it is hardpan or an impenetrable soil which retards root growth and the helpful movement of soil moisture.

When the landowner knows his soil to its plow depth, the soil surveyors know it to a depth of 3 or 4 feet, and describe it so minutely as to tell why some of this county's soils are droughty and unproductive in dry seasons, while others have a texture and subsoil which enable them to hold water for the crops even in the driest years. They also advise as to the treatment, fertilizing, and cropping of soils.

The survey report describes Beloit silt loam as the most important farming soil of the county, and tells the color, thickness, and material of the different layers of this and other soils of the county to a depth of several feet.

DEBT AGREEMENTS UP TO FRENCH PARLIAMENT

Paris—(AP)—The Havas News agency said today the French government would give permanent a free rein to choose ratification of the inter-allied debt agreements by either decree or by voting.

In any event, it was said, the government will not propose a question of confidence to the chamber of deputies.

Under the title "Why I Broke Silence," Henri Dorenger, who as former minister of finance was responsible for the accord with the United States, has started a series of articles pleading the cause of ratification.

BANKING CIRCLES SEE IMPROVEMENT IN STOCK MARKET

Gold Imports Are Increasing to Relieve Tight Situation

Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—Financial Review and Outlook—Imports of gold from Canada on a considerable scale are expected following the receipt of today of $2,000,000. A continuation of the import from the Argentine is also probable. It is doubtful, however, whether these will be much gold permitted to be released by the bank of England on American account in spite of the level to which sterling exchange has declined and the present high ratio of gold holdings shown by this institution.

Canada has been a heavy lender of funds in the New York market during the period of extreme rates for call money. Her willingness now to let gold come this way after having raised a barrier against shipments of the yellow metal across the border coincides with the long period of relatively easy call rates this year. It is of interest to note that in the last three weeks there has been a steady shrinkage in the account of brokers' loans for others, aggregating $131,000,000.

IMPORTS TOP EXPORTS

In the first five months of 1929 total gold imports into the United States were $160,000,000. Excess of gold imports over gold exports for this period was $142,000,000. With the gold that has been received so far in June, the addition to the American stock since Jan. 1 amounts to approximately $150,000,000 and since August 1, 1928, to nearly $200,000,000. This compares with a loss of about $225,000,000 in gold by this country to Europe and to South America in the quarter ending July 31 last year.

The statement of the federal reserve banks at the close of business June 13, indicates that their gold reserves on that day were $2,875,630,000. This figure was nearly $300,000,000 greater than that of June 13, 1928, and is an important factor in the comparatively high ratio of reserve of the 12 federal reserve banks in contrast to the low reserve ratio a year ago when the policy of steadily increasing rediscount rates was being carried out.

SITUATION STRONGER NOW

Another point this week's federal reserve statement shows a decidedly stronger situation than a year ago, namely in the item of bills discounted. These are now approximately $934,000,000 having increased in the past week $43,000,000. They are $109,000,000 or 10 per cent, smaller than a year ago for the system as a whole. In New York alone the contraction within the last month amounted to $2,000,000 or nearly 40 per cent in spite of this week's gain of $18,000,000. In fact, together with the reduction of $258,000,000 or about 25 per cent, in the brokers' loans of the New York institution, makes it difficult for borrowers on speculative collaterals to understand why money rates here should have been and still are, so high.

Further advances Friday in government bonds and treasury certificates suggested that the federal reserve bank will be inclined to use the market for government securities, rather than that for bankers' acceptances, as a medium for lifting the strain on the money market over the period of unusual demand that is just ahead of it. Recently the portfolio of the federal reserve showed not only the smallest holding of government securities, but of acceptances, in many months. The accepted theory in banking circles now is that both will be built up substantially in the next few weeks.

CYRIL TOLLEY IS BRITISH TITLIST

Defeats John Nelson Smith 4 and 3 in English Open Tourney

Sandwich, Eng.—(AP)—Cyril J. H. Tolley Saturday won the British amateur golf championship for the second time, defeating John Nelson Smith, Scottish carpenter from Fife, 4 and 3 to play.

Smith opened by winning the first hole from Tolley. The Scot laid himself a stytle and lost the fifth but jumped ahead again at the seventh. He lost the ninth on account of trouble in a trap and they reached the turn all square.

The young Scotch carpenter provided the first big thrill of the match by holing a shot from the extreme edge of the tenth green for a birdie three and the lead. At the twelfth Tolley sank his from five feet away to even the match again.

John Dawson joined the gallery for a few minutes as the match passed the Prince's course where the young American, who was eliminated in a thrilling finish by Smith Friday was playing.

The approximate figures for the rounds were $0 for Tolley and $1 for Smith.

INVASION REPORT RIGHT, PEPING DISPATCH SAYS

London—(AP)—A Peiping dispatch in the Daily Express today insisted upon the correctness of dispatches yesterday which said that Russian troops had begun military movements against Manchuria.

The dispatch today said there were reports in Peiping of Russian military demonstrations from two directions on the northern frontier of China, from a line between Irkutsk, Siberia, and Ugra, Mongolia. The Soviet was said to be sending sketched organizations as a basis for Mongolian native mobilization.

The Express correspondent cited a purported telegram from Chang Hsueh Liang, Manchurian dictator, to the Nanking government saying that three divisions of Russian

NEW PASTOR TO READ FIRST MASS SUNDAY

Menasha—The Rev. John Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Murphy, 411 Nicolet-blvd., who was ordained at Green Bay last week, will read his first mass at St. church 10:30 Sunday morning. The morning service will be followed by dinner and supper at St. Mary dining room which will be served by the Christian Mothers society to approximately 125 guests. The Rev. Frank A. Francart, another former pupil of St. Mary school, read his first mass last Sunday.

FEAR REACTION TO MONEY RATE POLICY

reduce their loans in the speculative world might well have been applied to the big corporations. Some of them have publicly announced that they were not lending their money on call but many others have remained significantly silent. What appears to be the central point of criticism is the bewildering that recent policies of the board have created something that leads every now and then to the intimation that there is evidently little recognition in Washington of the practical banking problems and that there is either a lack of leadership or a failure to assert it on the part of those who are responsible for the functioning of the federal reserve mechanism.

"Perhaps," said one banker, "it is because we have come to expect great things of the Federal Reserve because of its remarkable record but we would much prefer to have the board make up its mind to do a thing and do it rather than keep on talking publicly about threats of action. After a while if a threat is made and isn't carried out, it creates an impression of weakness and vacillation."

FRIENDLY CRITICISM

All the criticism voiced in a good temper and with a real purpose of rendering constructive aid to a banking system which it is admitted is capable of elasticity and effectiveness provided it is administered from a broad point of view.

It would not be surprising if out of the present flurry came a study of what should be the intimate relations between member banks and the Federal Reserve bank. There are for example, conflicting statements made as to reasons for as well as the purposes desired by the Federal Reserve board. One banker said he was given to understand that the reserve board wanted borrowings reduced by selling all government securities on hand while another comment from a responsible quarter was that the board never intended to force that liquidation. Certainly, the bankers have disliked to the point of resentment some of the tactics of the reserve banks in forcing a reduction of borrowings. It has led to all sorts of questioning as to what is and what is not a proper function of the reserve bank. All this will in time no doubt straighten itself out but it is evident that much educational work needs to be done as between the banks and the federal reserve and that a vital policy like "moving around" or "direct pressure" cannot be accomplished without at the same time taking the bankers themselves into complete confidence and perhaps partnership in the practical evolution of such policies.

It is conceded that the objectives of the board in reducing speculation have been commendable but not as much is said for the method and manner selected of achieving those objectives and out of it has come a ready challenge to the Federal Reserve board as well as the system to find ways of removing the scars of its battle with speculation.

Authorities in Moscow yesterday derided there had been an invasion of Manchuria. The national government authorities at Nanking said they had no information of such.

Church-State Conference Now Puzzling To Mexico

Mexico City—(AP)—Negotiations for the settlement of Mexico's church-state difficulties have entered a stage puzzling to observers of the long controversy between the federal government and the Roman Catholic church.

President Portes Gil, in a statement last night, apparently answering a story appearing in one of the morning papers purporting to outline the basis of discussion with the Roman Catholic prelates, denied there had been "discussion of existing laws relating to religion."

Meanwhile the day had passed without another conference between the president and Archbishop Ruiz y Flores and Bishop Pascual Diaz, representing the Roman church. Archbishop Diaz, in a statement denying the newspapers' purported revelations, said the next conference with the president would be "on call."

Some placed the interpretation of the president's statements that he inferred something broader than mere laws was under discussion and that the negotiations had revolved about interpretation of existing legislation rather than changes in it. Others found in it an indication of increasing intransigence of attitude on the part of the administration.

Two sentences in the president's statement received particular attention. "My stand on this matter cannot be any other than strict compliance with my duty as chief magistrate of the nation and in this connection the resumption of services within the republic can be accomplished at any time," it is desired. However, this will always depend upon the dignitaries of the Roman Catholic church having previously subjected themselves to the mandates of the general constitution and other existing laws."

The fact that there was no conference between the negotiators yesterday and that the ecclesiastics said the next conference would be "on call," was not taken to mean the negotiations had broken down, but that the negotiators would get together again when either side had something to present.

Manuel C. Tellez, the Mexican ambassador at Washington, who is popularly supposed to have played an extra-official part in furthering the negotiations, is leaving to resume his post, after calling on the president last night to bid him farewell. When he arrived from Washington it was announced he came on a vacation although the visit was generally held to be connected with the church conference.

SUNDAY'S GAMES

Kim-Little Chute at Green Bay.
Neenah-Menasha at Appleton.
Fond du Lac at Wisconsin Rapids.
Marquette at Kaukauna.

APPLETON baseball club will try to turn a trick that has been pulled by only one club in the Fox River Valley, Sunday, when the Fords go out in an effort to chalk up a win over the Neenah-Menasha Pails.

Kimberly-Little Chute because of its starting pitcher Pocan has trimmed the Pails. Other teams have had to take a back seat for them and there are many managers who rate the Pails even better than the villagers.

Appleton met Neenah-Menasha in the first game of the season away back one afternoon when the weather was much better for a football game. Nixon's control wasn't so good that afternoon and he walked 14 men. But it didn't mean much to the Pails for they couldn't hit a balloon that particular day and when the Pails hit on Ritten and Refke first, they chalked up their first win.

Manager Kotal has indicated he will send his kid right hander, Clarence Stoffel, against the Pails Sunday. And then again he may not. Stoffel worked a few innings last Sunday and although he showed well enough he'll have a battle on his hands to stop the Pails. Kotal also has indicated he may have some new hurling talent around town for Sunday's game.

Nixon will do the tossing for the invaders and he always means trouble. The big fellow has done some mighty fine hurling in the valley in recent years, holding a strikeout record and a few other things. If the fans see nothing else they'll at least see some good pitching for the Pails.

"The question of who will take Joe Shields' place at second base Sunday still is a question. Ram and the absence of Manager Kotal have left no indication of what Eddie plans to do about the post. He may send Sonny Tormow to the bag and then again he may not, preferring to try Boots Bowers. At any rate fans will know what he has in mind when Sunday afternoon rolls around.

Other positions on the Appleton will be filled by the same men who have performed in them in recent games. Murphy will receive Eggert will be at first, Kotal at short, Gully Schultz at third, Crowe in right field and Hillman spearing the ball off the fence in center.

The Pails boast a heavy hitting club with a bunch of veterans; who know plenty about the game. Handler does the catching, Harry Leopold is at first, Joe Muench short, Powell third and Shleski second. The outfield is filled by several good clubbers and fielders that can roam far and wide.

Green Bay—With 'Bo' Molenda of Michigan fame in the box, Green Bay has hopes of putting an end to the winning streak of Kim-Little Chute in a Valley league ball game here on Sunday. Pocan, the Paper-makers' slab star, who hasn't been scored on in 40 frames will toe the mound for the visitors. It should be some hurling due to he is home to Marquette. The Kays whipped the Northerners once this week and figure that they can do it again although reports from Jab Murray's toyn carry the news that the tall-ender will present a much improved line-up. Roumevar and Refke will be the opposing slubsters.

Fond du Lac jumps over to Wisconsin Rapids for its first appearance this season. The Cardinals with "Boss" Roth in the box have been looking a lot better of late and they should make things interesting for Stub Huber & Co. Easting, the husky portender, is slated to oppose the tribe from Ruepingtown.

AMERICAN DERBY WILL BE RUN TODAY

Clyde Van Dusen, Son of Man o' War, Favorite on Muddy Track

Chicago—(AP)—Turf glory and $50,000 in added money beckoned 16 of the country's crack three-year-olds Saturday in the twenty-first running of the American derby at Washington park. Seventy-five thousand lovers of the sport were expected to witness the struggle.

The stake, once the outstanding race event of the country, lacked only Blue Larkspur, Edward R. Bradley's winner of the Belmont stakes, of the outstanding three year olds of the season.

Clyde Van Dusen, sturdy little son of Man o' War, winner of the Kentucky Derby, was favored to take the Chicago classic largely because of a heavy track, similar in condition to the one of which he emerged victor in the blue grass fixture a month ago. However, Nashapur, which finished second in the Van Dusen in the Kentucky Derby and won the Tia Juana Derby, Karl Ettel, winner of the Fairmont Derby on muddy going; Windy City, and Dr. Freeland, winner of the Preakness, were highly favored.

He's After a New Record

Here's Clarence "Squaw" Pocan, the pride and joy and toast of baseball fans at Kimberly and Little Chute. Pocan will go out against Green Bay Sunday afternoon at the Bay to try and continue the string of innings during which he has not been scored on. When last Sunday's game was over Pocan had hurled 40 scoreless innings which has set the villagers looking through baseball records to learn just what the record is.

Pocan beat Fondy last week 2 to 0 allowing five hits; the week before, he trimmed Menasha by a like score allowing two hits; the week before that he downed Kaukauna 6 and 0 allowing but four hits and the week previous beat Wisconsin Rapids 6 and 0, allowing only one hit.

The last time he was scored on was in the eighth inning of a game with Appleton when Dats Crowe hit the ball out of the lot. Poko also hurled three innings against Marquette May 30, during which time the northerners failed to count.

Cardinals Trim Boston And Take N. L. Lead When Giants Down Pittsburgh

Lou Gehrig Crashes Out His Sixteenth, Seventeenth Homers

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN Associated Press Sports Writer
AFTER two days of vain battling against rain squalls, the Cardinals have settled themselves Friday to the more pleasant task of beating the Braves. The Red Birds celebrated the opening of the Boston series by shading Judge Fuchs' tribe, 4 to 3, and so regained first place by the precarious margin of half a game, or two percentage points.

The Giants paved the way for this Cardinal advance by turning back the Pirates, 7 to 5, after taking two of the preceding afternoons.

With the Bostonese imprisoned in Sportsman's park for three games in the next two days, Billy Southworth entertains high hopes of consolidating the advanced position of the Cardinals, but he may have to fight hard for any advantage he gains. Led by the veterans Harry Seibold, the Braves gave the league champions a severe argument Friday. The visitors went so far as to propel Willie Sherdel from the box in a most undignified manner in the seventh while scoring three times to come within one of a tie.

Bottomley Homers
Sylvester Johnson saved the day for Sherdel, who got credit for the victory. Jim Bottomley helped tremendously with his eleventh home run.

The Pirates can't win them all, and this becomes particularly evident when a pitcher like Larry Benton achieves his highest form. Benton gave the hard swinging Bostonians just seven hits and seldom was in any danger after the Giants knocked Jess Petty from the box in the first inning. It was Petty's second knock-out in two days.

Brooklyn committed three misplays in the ninth at Cincinnati, enabling the Reds to score three times and tie, but beyond the game in the eleventh when Rhiel walked and scored on Frederick's double. It was Brooklyn's second straight victory over the Reds.

Yanks, Mark Win
With the limit of the trading season only hours away, Jim Welsh once more finds himself in the regalia of the Braves, while Eddie Farrell again is a Giant, as a result of a straight trade yesterday. Welsh came to New York in the Hornsby deal, and Farrell moved to Boston in the transaction which made Larry Benton a Giant.

The Athletics and the Yankees were their customary victors, maintaining their tight game gap by which the Athletics lead. The Macks humiliated Cleveland a second time as Bob Grove turned in the best hit to win by 9 to 0, and the Huggins stumped the Tigers, 15 to 4. Grove gave just six hits in winning his tenth of the season and his seventh in succession. He has lost only once this season.

GEHRIG GETS HOMERS
The Yanks had another fine hitting afternoon, raking George M. George Smith and John Prudhomme for seventeen blows, including Lou Gehrig's sixteenth and seventeenth home runs. These two drives sent Gehrig into the unchallenged lead of the two majors. Waite Hoyt gave the Tigers to nine hits, and gave the impression that he could have done even better, had the occasion demanded.

The defeat was Uhl's third in succession, and was the hardest battering he has experienced since breaking his run of nine victories. Twelve Yankee hits, including both of Gehrig's homers, were drained upon him in two official innings, none being out when he was removed in the third.

Washington about faced and defeated the White Sox by 4 to 1 and the Browns nosed out the Red Sox by 7 to 6 in remaining American league fixtures.

WISCONSIN CREW LOSES BATTLE TO WASHINGTON EIGHT

Coach Mike Murphy Pleased With Showing of His New Charges

BY STANLEY E. KALISH Associated Press Sports Writer
ADISON—(AP)—Lake Mendota's waters saw more crew history Friday evening as the University of Washington varsity and junior varsity eights triumphed over those of Wisconsin.

Coach Al Ubrichson's husky varsity won by a length and two feet after a bitter race, during which Wisconsin led for more than half the distance. The race lasted 11 minutes, 2 seconds, considered fair for the two-mile course on still water.

The Pacific coast junior eight won a four mile edge over the willed Wisconsin Jayvees. The time was only one second slower than the varsity exhibition.

Coach Mike Murphy of Wisconsin, sending his first varsity eight to the starting line, was pleased. The cardinal-tipped blades worked well, and experts agreed to greater possibilities in the four-mile Poughkeepsie regatta Wisconsin will row June 24.

With the two Washington crews, the Badger regatta leaves Saturday night for the Hudson classic. The Hudson classic.

Wisconsin and Washington started with a 38 minute stroke. The Badgers were off to a better start and had a quarter length advantage as the two crews passed the quarter mile mark.

The Huskie coxswain, Harris, had his eight men working smoothly from thereon and the Pacific coast leads cut the lead to two feet at the half mile and nearly two lengths advantage at one mile and three-quarters. Both crews were hitting 34 strokes a minute at the half mile mark.

With a quarter mile to go, "Bobby" Jones, Wisconsin's 108 pound cox, speeded his stroke up and the lion-hearted Kesting the stern responded, and with his teammates shaved nearly a length off the Huskie lead.

Wisconsin, in its only competitive appearance of the year, rowed a combined Leader and Conbar stroke, which saw the Badgers dip their oars less deep than their rivals. The stroke featured a long lay-back, and a quick catch.

Washington rowed much the same stroke, but their oars found deeper in the water. The Huskies featured a shorter layback and a slightly quicker snap.

Appleton Athletics tied for the lead in the Little Fox league with Askeaton will pack their bats and uniforms Sunday afternoon and rattle up to DePere in hope of coming home with another victory.

Several weeks ago the Athletics met DePere at Interlake park and won by the narrow margin of 1 to 0. Since then the Athletics have found their batting eyes and have been clouting the ball at random.

The Athletics have been working hard for Sunday's game with the knowledge they might be trimmed if not in first class condition. The starting lineup will show G. Verbrick at third, Eddie Verbrick at short, Herb or Schuster at second, Boyle or Kugler at first and Furling, VanderLinden, Schultz, Bruggeman and Horn in the garden.

Bruggeman will again take up the hurling duties and if he continues feeling opponents as well as in recent games he should chalk up another victory. DeYoung is slated to be on the receiving end.

MILLS IN VIRTUAL TIE WITH K. C. BLUES

Robertson and Burwell in Hurling Duel but Charley Loses

BY WILLIAM A. WEEKS Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago—(AP)—Mike Kelley's Minneapolis club Saturday faced the second game of the series with Columbus in a virtual tie with the Kansas City Blues, for first place in the American association.

Having won two less games than the Millers, Kansas City had a percentage point lead, although Minneapolis had one more victory to its credit.

"Kansas City lost its one game lead Friday by bowing for the first time this season to Louisville, while Minneapolis was trimming Columbus.

St. Paul ran Toledo's string of scoreless innings to 26 by winning a 4 to 0 decision. The Mud Hens collected 10 hits off Huckle Betts, two more than Bud Farnham permitted the Saints, but won the game.

Indianapolis took the series opener from Milwaukee, 4 to 3, in another pitching battle between Bill Ewer and Charley Robertson. Clyde Barnhart's single, followed by a sacrifice and a triple by Sprinz, gave the Indians the winning run in the sixth.

Philadelphia Athletics Lead American League In Fielding And Batting

Frans O'Doul of Phillies Still Leads National Loop Batting

CHICAGO—(AP)—Connie Mack's years of planning and scheming toward another American league championship for Philadelphia are producing a bumper crop of results, unofficial figures at the end of the eighth week of the campaign reveal.

The Athletics, leading the league, dominated the circuit in every department of play for the season including Wednesday's games. Led by Jimmy Fox, Philadelphia, sat atop the batting heap, and led the league in fielding.

FOX SETS PACE
Fox continued to set the pace in individual batting efforts with an average of .414, an increase of four points over a week ago, with Bob McWhorter of Detroit, his nearest threat, 30 points behind. Folliergie made a gain of 21 points for an average of .354, to climb from third to second, displacing Mickey Cochran of the Athletics from the runner-up position. Other batting leaders were: Lazzeri, New York, .377; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .372; Simmons, Philadelphia, .366; L. Rice, Washington, .353; Manush, St. Louis, .349; Fonseca, Cleveland, .345; Falk, Cleveland, .331; Nalesky, Boston, .347.

The Athletics improved their team batting mark by four points to .316. Detroit remained in second place with .285, a point under last week's mark. The Athletics also topped the league in runs scored, with 377, and had held all opposition to 182 runs.

Philadelphia assumed the team fielding leadership for the first time jumping from fourth place to the top with an average of .975. Washington, last week's leader, slipped to a tie for second place with New York at .974. St. Louis, second a week ago, fell fourth with .972.

GROVE LEADING HURLER
Robert Moses Grove, the Athletics' southpaw pitching ace, became the league's leading regularly working hurler when

CHAPTER 10
A DROP OF BLOOD

"Where is the revolver?" MacNair demanded.

"I think I am lying on it," I said. A metallic object was pressing into the small of my back. "Here it is. The rascal had it leveled on me when I hit him with the golf club. He dropped it and used his own gun on you."

MacNair looked the pistol over. "Queen, he should have known you had it."

I nodded. "It's just another of the many queeresses we have to explain. I'm glad you happened along. You'd better stay for breakfast. If it hadn't been for Lucy—patting her hand and being kissed in return—"and you and Mrs. Moffit I'd be past caring about breakfasts."

"No, thanks," he declined. "It's nearly dawn. I want to have a look around the Ogden grounds before Deacon and his men mess things up. That was my object in getting there at this ungodly hour. 'Evidence evaporates. Get on the job early,' is one of the maxims of my profession. 'There's another I'm fond of, too. 'Stick to your job until it's finished.'"

"There, Peebles, I've taught you how to be a successful detective in two lessons. Write 'em down."

They helped me into a chair. The window, I saw, had been neatly cut with a diamond near the bolt. Mrs. Moffit appeared properly skirted and carrying water, hot and cold, and a dish of warm olive oil.

"I'll do it," Lucy offered, when I had drunk.

"Miss Lucy," my housekeeper whispered, "you are in your nightgown."

"Of course I am. Uncle John is in his pajamas."

"Lucy," I interrupted dryly, "you might get me my dressing gown."

She gave me a little gay-sad smile and tripped out of the room. Lucy insists Mrs. Moffit is so modest that she bathes herself in the dark.

"I called Polyandra. She sprang onto my knees and while Mrs. Moffit and her ministrations I turned her upside down and examined her claws. On the middle claw of the right front foot I found what I was looking for. Mrs. Moffit handed me a lens and I bent it on the claw. When I finally looked up MacNair was watching me ironically.

"Well?" he queried.

"I huddled. 'There's a drop of blood on one of Polyandra's claws. She got between the rascal's legs and she scratched him. You had better look for a man with a scratch, MacNair.'

"Not bad," he said curtly. "Another demonstration of my contention that one should get on the job early. A few minutes later you wouldn't have found it." He peered through the lens. "The scratch will be on an exposed part of the man's body," he went on, "or his garments would have cleansed the claw as the cat drew it back."

"An excellent point!" I remarked. "It hadn't occurred to me. Our task is again simplified: we look for a man with a scratch on an exposed part of his body."

"Hardly as simple as that," MacNair drawled.

"What do you mean?" I exclaimed, struck by his tone.

At this, MacNair pulled up his right sleeve and revealed a red welt two inches long on the under side of his wrist.

"What do you say to that?" he chuckled.

"I mean if we were to find a man with a scratch on, say, his wrist it wouldn't necessarily follow that he'd killed Andrew Ogden."

"Coming through the window just now. You must trust that brier rose of yours, Peebles."

"Oh," I said in abashed tones. "I'm sorry. I've always been sleep-ful of the value of circumstantial evidence too."

"But you shouldn't be," he informed me bluntly. "It's generally dependable. Unfortunately, circumstantial evidence is subject to human interpretation. Coincidence is the biggest maggot in the circumstantial cheese. Make allowances for coincidence and you'll get along nicely with circumstantial evidence. I shall still look for a man with a scratch. Peebles, MacNair tore a scrap of blotting paper from my desk pad, absorbed the drop of blood, and placed the scrap in an envelope, which he pocketed."

"When I had dismissed Mrs. Moffit and Lucy had brought me my dressing-gown, I picked up the gold-mounted revolver. I ejected the cartridges into my palm. It was my intention to extract the powder from them, as I am averse to keeping more than one loaded weapon in the house, but MacNair objected.

"I wanted a pistol expert to go over the revolver and the cartridges. An expert may be able to give us some hint as to where they came from. Never mind reloading the revolver."

"How stupid of me!" I cried. "I never thought of getting an expert to look at them."

As I handed him the revolver and the cartridges one of the latter caught my eye and I drew it sharply back.

"Hello!" I exclaimed. "This cartridge has been tampered with."

I dug the bullet out with a jack knife and looked for the powder. There was none. Instead, I saw what was evidently a wad of paper and I poked at it with a pin. It came out reluctantly.

"A message, Uncle John," Lucy cried ecstatically.

When I had got the scrap of paper spread out on the desk it looked as if Lucy was right. It was dirty and brittle and I'd been torn off the top edge of a newspaper—and there was scarcely legible writing in a delicate pencil on it. A date line was partly decipherable and, to my astonishment, I made out:

Torridity—Monday, July, 1929.

"Torridity?" I gasped.

"Eighteen munny-six," MacNair muttered.

"The writing, Uncle John—read it!" Lucy whispered.

"And with the aid of the lens I did so."

"... done for. Alex. Dillon got me... skunk, but I... a bullet... hm, somewhere. Good-b... old scout. You did... best for me I've... a bad devil."

"Jerry!" Lucy echoed.

ENGLISH STOPS 'EM

NEW YORK—Incorrect use of English, the inability to express themselves and poor writing are holding back numerous men in the engineering field, according to Dr. Harvey Nathaniel Davis, president of Stevens Institute of Technology. "The engineering field," he says, is clogged by men whose technical training has been thorough, but who, because of their poor spoken and written English, are unable to move up to positions of leadership."

SMALL SATISFACTION

LONDON—After serving three months in prison, Ernest Lee, 35, received a pardon and $500. It was found after he had served this time on a charge of posing as a brewer's agent and collecting a commission, that another man was guilty. The guilty party, already in jail on another crime, confessed.

ROSS DENOUNCES STUDENT ATTACKS ON FLOATING "U"

Uncalled for Charges Made by Discontented Group,
He Claims

Madison — (P)—Protests of students on the floating university concerning quarters and management of the tour were classified by Prof. Edward Alsworth Ross of the University of Wisconsin, academic head of the cruise as "scholastic mutiny" at sea, with no academic equivalent for the ironies into which mutinying sailors were cast.

Prof. Ross, of the Wisconsin sociology department, is enthusiastic over possibilities for a floating university.

Sixty-five per cent of the young men and women on the last cruise to countries half way round the globe kept their poise and did the work. Prof. Ross said, and "if there had been another type of person managing the cruise who could have held the group under firmer discipline the percentage would have undoubtedly been 50," he said.

"There was an element I would call the roisterers who eventually abandoned all study and even passed up a good many of the educational excursions. They sat around idly with best girls or best fellows, sipping cooling drinks in the day and seeing the 'night life' in the late hours.

"Of course this element shared none of the wonderful insight the genuine student was gaining into the life and past of faraway people and hence what sort of hotel room they had and what sort of meals provided bulked very large in their eyes," he said.

"All the ill-natured kicking that got in the papers was from the non-students. Of 53 hotels, there were perhaps five not up to cruise standards," he said.

"I personally found nothing to complain of for myself and wife. Having spent five years of my life in foreign travel, I know well, that travel in outlying parts of the world can not yet be standardized.

"At no time did I have the impression that the management was not giving as much as it could for the money the students had paid.

Dr. Ross declared that there was a very marked disagreement between Mr. and Mrs. Greenbie, the managers of the cruise, and the faculty, but this related in no way to the accommodations provided, but rather to the ideals to be used in the guidance and discipline of students.

Dr. Ross said three fifths of the young men and women refused to be carried away by heart interest.

"In a land university," he said, "the idlers would simply have been sent home. But we couldn't set adrift a girl of 18 or 19 thousands of miles from home simply because she was shirking and idling."

According to Dr. Ross, the next cruise will be more carefully selected by the faculty, but in spite of distractions, the floating university of Wisconsin is a possibility for education than an education at one-land university. "The plan for floating universities," in the hands of

RED IS FAVORITE COLOR IN FROCKS

Combination Is Found in France, Spain, and United States

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
New York — France, Spain and the United States go hand in hand when it comes to this season's colors for red, white and blue, the French and American colors are sharing honors in the color combinations with the yellow and red of Spain. The frocks of the tricolor usually use the red as a background softened by the white and blue. The yellow is the basic color of the other combination giving flaring contrast by the red. Some of the designs are plaids while other flaunt geometrical figures or circles and knots.

Trousseau cover not a multitude of fine but a wide range of costumes and materials. Just now one indispensable article is either a single or double silver scarf fox. The bride who starts on her honeymoon is likely to carry one for who knows what the weather will be in the Rockies, in San Francisco, in the Alps or in London or the Scottish highlands. This type of neckpiece seems to fit the individual characteristics of a wide number of women.

The simpler the shoe the better this season when so many women are exhibiting the top-dressing prowess they have acquired from their professional instructors during the winter. Then too, the simple shoes show off frocks most effectively. The beige colorings are very popular since they go well with nearly all other colors and since blue is being worn, blue shoes, usually of a very dark shade are being chosen.

Contrary to the trend of foot coverings, the hand coverings are steadily becoming more elaborate. This is perhaps accounted for by the fact that they are worn often with sleeveless frocks and have to rely on their own adornment without aid from the dress cuff. Consequently the gauntlets are having fluted pieces of various colors let into the sides and those gloves with short cuffs have them elaborately embroidered.

some one or other, will become a permanent institution in which thousands of young Americans will gain a broad sympathetic view of far away peoples, and eventually lead their home staying fellow citizens to broader outlook on international relations.

Gardeners Making More Use Of The Columbine

More and more use of the handsome and graceful columbine is being made in garden arrangement particularly with reference to color. There are few plants which include the red, blue and yellow scales in one genus but the columbine is one of them. Owing to the great variety of coloring it fits into almost any possible color plan.

Starting in mid-May the columbine display continues until well into July and if seed pods are kept snipped off the plant will give an

THIEVES TAKE SIXTY BABY CHICKS AT FARM

Sixty baby chicks were stolen from a brooder house on the Robert Rohm farm in the town of Grand Chute Friday night or Saturday morning. The chicks were just a week old. The theft was discovered early Saturday morning by Mrs. Rohm when she went to feed the chicks. There had been about 100 chicks housed in the brooder which stood only a short distance away from the Rohm home.

Talks To Parents

PLEASURE IN LEARNING

By Alice Judson Peale

The Latin over which I struggled and rebelled and struggled again for five mortal years has been washed as clean from my mind as if my brain never had been contaminated with a single Latin exercise.

Today I am no more able to decipher the simplest inscription, than if I had never seen the inside of a Latin grammar.

I believe that everyone who did not love his Latin has forgotten it quite as completely as I. For always, we veil in oblivion those experiences of our lives which carried unpleasant associations at the time.

Whatever we learn painfully, grimly and with a kind of driven determination quickly is erased from our minds by the mereful mechanism of a protective forgetfulness. "Duty," "must," "ought," are bitter doses which children swallow with resistance and retain with difficulty. Only those things which we learn quickly and happily stay with us for years to come.

If, therefore, you really want your child to learn some particular thing or to acquire for life certain desirable habits, see to it that he is in a cheerful frame of mind while he is learning.

When Helen objects to making her bed and picking up her clothes, don't lecture. Offer her, instead, a reward for a week's virtuous performance. When the chore has become associated in her mind with prospective pleasure it at once will lose some of its unpleasantness. When she has learned to do it for a tangible reward she will before long need only the incentive of her mother's affectionate approval.

Finally, she will do the uncongenial task for no other reason than the pleasure she derives from her own good opinion of herself.

Machinery Is Necessary For Prosperity — Babson

BY ROGER W. BABSON
Babson Park, Mass. —Notwithstanding the scathing criticism by certain foreign "intelligencia" of American standardization and machine methods, the fact remains that these methods have made America the most prosperous and the most comfortable country in the world in which to live. If standardization is bringing us all onto a common level, so that we all dress much alike, enjoy the same amusements, have many of the same privileges and luxuries, then it is truly making us a democratic nation. How much better than that half of our people should live in miserable poverty so characteristic of many European countries.

I am much interested in the relation of the prosperity of various industries to the degree in which they have been standardized and mechanized. Unquestionably the increasing use of machinery is the reason why some industries show larger output per worker than others.
Of course, certain lines of business are better adapted to machine methods than others. However, many industries which formerly thought they could not use modern machinery at all are rapidly adopting it.

RELATIVE EFFICIENCY
One way to determine the approximate efficiency of an industry is to divide the "production value added by manufacture" by the number of employees. This figure, known as "value added by manufacture" is arrived at by deducting the cost of the raw materials from the total value of the products produced.

It shows the increase in value resulting from the manufacturing process. In general those industries with the highest value per worker are the most efficient. It does not matter whether this efficiency comes through the use of labor-saving machinery, through better management, through more efficient labor devices or through a combination of these causes. I find that those industries which are making the greatest use of machinery are showing the highest value of products per worker. For example, among the largest industries, automobiles stand at the head of the list with a value per worker of $4.
105 per annum. Next is the printing and publishing business with $3.849.
The meat packing industry is third with $3.530; iron and steel fourth with $3.206; men's and women's clothing fifth with $3.070; electrical machinery and equipment sixth with $2.
552; machinery and machine shop products seventh with $2.803; lumber eighth with $1.738; and cotton textiles ninth with $1.333.

PROSPEROUS USE MACHINES
Present great prosperity of the automobile industry would never have been possible were it not for the remarkable improvements in machinery and standardization of production methods of the past few years. Another huge industry, iron and steel, is now making the most extensive use of machine methods in its history. Earnings of the iron and steel business were 111 per cent greater in the first quarter of 1929 than in the same period of 1928, indicating a highly prosperous condition. Other notably prosperous lines are electrical machinery and equipment, printing and publishing, machinery and machine tools, chemicals and drugs, petroleum refining, and food products.

Contract the high earnings of these businesses which are all large users of machinery with the low earnings of agriculture where manpower still is the important factor.
To be sure, introduction of farm machinery is going on rapidly and the use of power on the farm in the few eastern states is gradually helping in reducing costs and increasing profits of farming. Today, however, the farm industry is employing one-third of the total workers of the country and still shows a value or production per worker than any other industry. The salvation of the farmer depends upon adopting the efficiency methods, insofar as possible, that have been successful in manufacturing lines.

KEEPS WAGES HIGH
Although greater uses of machinery are creating some unemployment, they are also tending to keep wages of the employed at high levels. Industry can still keep high wages only when it is prosperous.
As machinery and standardization of products increase industrial profits they keep wages high. Moreover, mass production through machine methods tends to build up new industries accessory to, or affiliated with, those already in existence.
For example, the growth of the auto accessory business, garages, filling stations, etc., is directly due to mass production. The new jobs are getting new jobs are provided in servicing lines for those thrown out of production work by labor-saving machinery. The problem of caring for the "machine-made-unemployment" is one of vocational adjustment. Other new industries and services are springing up which will ultimately take care of these men, but, as I have often mentioned, there is a great need for adult vocational training to fit them for their new work.

DISING
The cost of distribution is one of the highest costs in our whole economic system. Our production processes have reached a high state of efficiency, but our selling is still wasteful. This is leading to the introduction of mechanical devices such as vending machines.
Such machines are particularly adapted to the sale of nationally advertised package goods. Purchasers know exactly what they are getting when they buy these nationally known products and in many instances a vending machine is quicker and more convenient, and certainly a more economical method of selling. The time may come when a very large part of our retail selling will be done by machine. There are physical limitations to this of course, and there will always be the requirement for individual service which only human contact can provide.

Nevertheless, labor-saving machinery is steadily coming into the field of merchandising and this movement will continue.

Business by the Babsonchart is still 7 per cent above normal compared with 5 per cent above a year ago. (Copyright, 1929, Publishers Financial Bureau.)

BEVERAGE FIGHT IN WEST ENDS IN SUIT FOR LIBEL

Publication Is Sued for $50,000 for "Defamatory" Statements

BY BEN G. KLINE
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
San Francisco—A battle of bottles and beverages waged in the recent session of the California legislature has an aftermath a $100,000 libel suit brought against the Pacific Rural Press, leading coast farm publication, by John M. Rodgers, manufacturer and bottler of carbonated beverages and president of the California Bottlers' association.
The action, filed in the superior court of this city, reopens a war over the nickels and dimes of soft drink consumers which has been the subject of a federal trade commission decision. Cognizance of the economic issue involved has been taken by various agricultural interests of the state, which have offered aid to the farm publication if the case has to be taken to higher courts.
The American public drinks eleven billion bottles of "soft" beverages a year. Noting the tendency a few years ago which has led up to this large consumption, the California cattle industry pulled itself out of a situation in which it was apparently to be just around the corner by a campaign which persuaded the thirsty public to drink as well as eat lemons and oranges.

The resultant turn toward prosperity for the citrus fruit grower was so amazing that the grape and other deciduous fruit industries began to look in the same direction for relief from heavy production and low prices. Fruit growers figured that the time was approaching when the human stomach would be getting about all the canned and fresh fruit it could hold, but that there would still be room for fruit juices.
Laboratory experiments produced beverage, often artificially colored and flavored, had the market.

BOTTLED FOULNESS BILL
Just a year after the Federal Trade Commission made a broad ruling that bottled beverages, if they bore fruit names, must either contain a substantial amount of fruit juice or carry the word "imitation" on the label. This ruling applied to interstate trade, and the California vine-yardists' association drew up a bill containing a similar provision which would apply to this state.
The bill, warmly supported by farm organizations and publications and opposed by beverage bottlers, was defeated. It was in the thick of this fight that the Rural Press made the statement that "Those who now fill the stomachs of the state with coal tar substitutes for fruit drinks have no standing for they are guilty of flagrant misbranding and public deception. They substitute for a lei-slimate, fine and healthy true product, a product of little value and deceptive label."

Mr. Rodgers in his suit states that his business has "depended largely upon his reputation as a manufacturer of a delicious and wholesome product of high food value" and he asks $50,000 damages for the alleged injury done to his business by each of the allegedly "false and defamatory" statements made in the farm publication.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE STILL MARKING TIME

Madison —(P)—An entire legislative week has passed without the senate committee on committees selecting two members to succeed Senator George W. Blanchard and Senator Conrad Shearer on the campaigns investigating committee.

Meanwhile the Assembly members have marked time, and no steps have been taken to get the inquiry under way, which is to investigate funds spent in all campaigns since 1924.

Under the law creating the committee, it is supposed to report its findings and recommendations to the present legislative session. When the law was passed, it was assumed the committee would begin its work early in the session. Nearly six months now have passed, and nothing has been done about an investigation.

Whether it will be able to complete its work before the legislature adjourns, when and if the committee gets started, is a question in the minds of many legislators.

HARLEY-DAVIDSON MOTORCYCLES COST LITTLE TO OPERATE

Complete Line of Motorcycles Carried Here by Harry Macklin

The line of Harley-Davidson motorcycles sold by Harry Macklin, E. Johnson-st., in the Langstadt-Meyer building, includes a model to suit every suit every purse and purpose, ranging from a low priced operating single cylinder motorcycles to the powerful, high speed two can twin cylinder models as those in use by police departments in all parts of the country.

Mr. Macklin reports keen interest in the new Harley-Davidson 45 cubic inch twin cylinder model, light-weight cylinder model with the center of gravity set low, it is such an easy handling cycle that the young man who never has had any riding experience has no trouble to get on the machine and with a little instruction ride away.

The single cylinder models are a lighter weight motorcycle and are popular among the three cents a mile — one cent covers everything, including gas, oil, depreciation, tires, and repairs per mile, according to Mr. Macklin. It is possible to make 80 miles per gallon with these motorcycles and many owners report even better mileage. The motor in this model has plenty of power to climb any hill.

The standard twin cylinder models are made in both 61 cubic inch models and in the 84 cubic inch type. The 61 is the model used for commercial work, having plenty of power to pull a package truck and the very low operating cost of this machine for commercial or sidecar work makes it a big seller.

It is seldom that the operating cost including gas, oil, and other expenses amounts to three cents a mile — in fact most operators report a cost per mile as being approximately two cents. The package truck cycle will operate for about one-third to one-fourth the operating cost of a light automobile truck.

In line with the Harley-Davidson motorcycles Mr. Macklin also sells a famous line of Evinrude outboard boat motors. For further information regarding motorcycles or boat motors call at the Harry Macklin shop on E. Johnson-st., or phone 510-W.

SEWERAGE ENGINEERS WILL MEET NEXT WEEK

Madison —(P)—Sewerage engineers of Wisconsin will attend the third annual meeting of the Central States Sewerage association next week at Indianapolis. Several members of the state will have parks on the program.

Two Wisconsin men are officers of the organization: Robert Cramer, chief engineer of the Milwaukee sewerage commission, president, and L. F. Warrick, state sanitary engineer, Madison, treasurer. The association covers the state of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. The Badger state has 34 members.

Mr. Cramer will give the president's address, and is also scheduled to speak on Milwaukee's experience with concentrated sludge in reducing the period of aeration in connection with the activated sludge process. Mr. Warrick will discuss the status of sewerage treatment in Wisconsin. James H. Macklin, in charge of operation at the Madison sewerage treatment plant, will describe sewerage treatment plant operation at Madison.

WEEKENDS BUSY ONES FOR BADGER GOVERNOR

Kohler —(P)—The weekends for Wisconsin's governor, Walter J. Kohler, are busy ones as he can testify. Friday, after speeding home for a short vacation, the Governor made two addresses, one in his home town last before members of the (Pa.) Chamber of Commerce and the other at the dedication of the American Legion clubhouse sixth anniversary program in Sheboygan.

The Erie group has been making a tour, and the Governor told the visitors that such trips as they make are important because it forms acquaintanceships among citizens of different parts of the nation and serves as "stimulation of commerce." Gov. Kohler spoke of Wisconsin's resources and explained that agriculture and industry are interdependent and "must prosper together."

In his address to the legionnaires, Gov. Kohler complimented them on their enterprise and told them: "The great war ended nearly 11 years ago, but the nation needs you as much today as it did then. Citizenship calls for courage and character. Without good citizenship it is doubtful whether good soldiers could be produced or whether there would be anything worth them while defending."

CONSERVATION BODY WILL CUT PROGRAM

Madison —(P)—Principal business at the monthly meeting of the state conservation commission Saturday will be abridgement of all proposed new activities in conservation for the next year. "Retrenchment of activities and abandonment of some of the expanded plants of the commission will be necessary on account of Governor Kohler's action in vetoing the resident fishing license bill," announcement from the department said.

FIREMAN ADMINISTER AIR TO SMALL CHILD

Chicago —(P)—Since 10 o'clock Thursday morning firemen with a pulmotor and many tanks of oxygen have been striving to save the life of 16-month-old Joseph di Chiasa. Early today it appeared they might succeed.

The child is suffering from pneumonia, and physicians called in the firemen after hope had been all but abandoned. Dr. John Fishotta said today the child seemed to have passed the crisis. At midnight 39 tanks of oxygen, each of 100 pounds capacity, had been used.

MUSSOLINI GREETED WORLD LIBRARIANS

Congress in 10-day Session —Many Delegates Welcomed by Pope

Rome —(P)—The World Congress of Librarians opened here today, with some of the most widely known librarians of the United States in attendance. Premier Mussolini delivered the inaugural address.

The congress will spend ten days in discussions, interviews and visits, most of the delegates at various times being received by the pope, who is himself one of the most learned librarians in the world.

Tomorrow will be spent in visiting book collections in and around Rome with the sessions of the various sections beginning Monday. The librarians will remain in session here until June 27 when they go to Venice, stopping enroute for exhibitions at Naples, Florence, Modena, Genoa, Milan and Turin.

Among the Americans here are Dr. Herbert Putnam, librarian of congress and a staff of assistant librarians; William W. Bishop, librarian of the University of Michigan; Arthur Elmore Bostwick, St. Louis; Andrew Keogh, president of the American Library association and librarian of Yale university; Theodore Wesley Koch, Northwestern university; Carl H. Milam, secretary of the American Library association. Chicago: Miss Emily V. D. Miller, editor of publications, American Library association, Chicago, and George Watson Cole, Pasadena, Calif.

Premier Mussolini, in inaugurating the congress, welcomed the delegates to Italy and outlined briefly the program which had been prepared for them. This he said would afford a complete resume of the art of book-making from ancient time to the Fascist regime, which he said was working with full cooperation with the best intellectual forces of the country.

Contrary to his usual custom of speaking French at international gatherings the premier spoke in Italian. He was greeted with applause as he familiarly bade his audience sit down. His reference to the pope as "master of the book of knowledge" brought further applause.
